PARIS POLICE CURB BASTILLE DAY RIOTERS

Nationalists Clash With Mobile Guards on Champs Elysees; Blum Warns Leftists Against Impatience

NUMBER PUT UNDER ARREST

Canadian Press
Paris, July 14.—Nationalists fought today in a forbidden Bastille Day demonstration on the fashionable Champs Elysees while the Socialist Premier, Leon Blum, warned an audience of about 750,000 Leftists at the other side of the city against "the danger of impatience and hasty action."

The clashes between Nationalists and police became riotous with numerous injuries and arrests.

Platoons of mobile guards quickly blocked the sidewalks on the Champs Elysees and rode up and down the avenue, dispersing the crowd.

Employees of cafes hastily pulled in the chairs and tables on which people had been standing and barricaded their doors. However, the doors were opened to permit entrance of several of the injured.

The fight on the Champs Elysees started when a girl, dressed entirely in white, waved a tri-color flag from an automobile driven up and down by a group of men.

The crowd lining the sidewalks surged to the curb shouting the nationalist cry: "France for the French!"

REVOLUTIONARY TRADITION

Premier Blum promised to revive "the great revolutionary tradition," but urged the country's workers to abandon their strikes and added:

"The forms in which workers' demands have been made contained serious risks which it is our duty to point out when their effect is to cause or prolong a condition of uneasiness or alarm."

Any reaction from his programme of change, which he called the "greatest attempt since the beginning of the Third Republic," would "unfailingly provoke disorder," the Premier declared.

DALADIER'S PLEDGE

After the Premier had urged his hearers to "foil intrigues" lest they "open the way to reaction," Edouard Daladier, Minister of Defense, pledged the Radical Socialist Party to remain faithful to the People's Front and protect the nation against "the shadow of dictatorship."

He said also the Radical Socialist Party would back the People's Front in its "attempt to maintain peace" in Europe.

GREAT PARADE

Before the speeches, a monster parade through the length of the city, organized by the Popular Front as a deferred celebration of its victory at the polls last May, featured the Bastille Day celebration.

It followed a military parade during which, for the first time in French history, the President of the Third Republic stood beside a Socialist Premier in the traditional review.

STATE OF SIEGE IN SOUTH CHINA

Kwangtung Province Prepared By Gen. Chen to Fight Nanking (Central) Government Troops

Canadian Press from Havas
Shanghai, July 14.—A state of siege has been proclaimed in Kwangtung province by General Chen Chi-tang, dissident Cantonese warlord, the official Chinese central news agency reported today.

The reports said Gen. Chen, dismissed as military governor of Kwangtung by Nanking yesterday, had dismissed two regiments suspected of being favorable to Nanking, and had constituted twelve new regiments to fight the troops of the central government.

CHIANG'S WARNING

Warning that China is ready to wage war rather than be forced into recognizing Manchukuo was sounded by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek in a speech at Nanking yesterday, the Kuomintang central executive committee meeting at Nanking today.

Canadian Press from Havas
Canton, July 14.—Nanking central government troops are advancing into northwestern Kwangtung province, with southwestern troops sent to attack them by General Chi-tang, Cantonese warlord, falling back on Skiunkan, dispatches received here today said.

The Nanking forces consist of the first Kwangtung army of General Yu Han-mo, which followed the example of its commander and went over in a body to the Nanking ranks, dispatches said. General Chen ordered the second Kwangtung army to attack General Yu's force in defiance of Nanking's order ousting him as military governor of Kwangtung.

Fervent preparations to resist an anticipated Nanking attack were underway here today, according to reports. Nanking troops were being mobilized and new defence systems organized.

Looks Forward To Washington

Sir Herbert Marler, New Minister to United States, Here From Japan

For the first time since he received his knighthood, Sir Herbert Marler, newly appointed Canadian Minister to the United States, arrived in Victoria this morning from the Orient aboard the S.S. Empress of Japan, accompanied by Lady Marler.

For the last seven years Sir Herbert and Lady Marler have been stationed in Tokyo, where he has been Canadian Minister to Japan. He was the first to ever hold that position and during his years in the Japanese capital he and his wife were tremendously popular and did a great deal to promote the well-being of this country.

"But I am glad to have a change," Sir Herbert said this morning when seen in the Japanese palatial suite-duluxe. "I think one becomes stale if left too long in one place. Lady Marler and I are both looking forward to our years in Washington."

PROMOTES TRADE

Like a true diplomat, Sir Herbert would say nothing for publication about political affairs in the Orient. During his years in Tokyo he was more interested in the promotion of Canadian trade and spoke again this morning of the potential markets in Japan for zinc, lead, copper lumber and paper.

Before leaving Tokyo, Sir Herbert and Lady Marler were widely entertained. They were received in private audiences at the Imperial Palace by the Emperor and Empress. Sir Herbert paid a farewell visit to the Japanese Foreign Office and was honored at luncheon by the American Club of Japan. On Dominion Day they held an informal reception at the Canadian Legation, bidding goodbye to their Canadian friends.

TO VISIT ENGLAND

Before taking over his new duties at the Canadian Legation in Washington about October 1, Sir Herbert hopes to pay a flying visit to England. If present plans materialize he and Lady Marler will sail from Montreal about August 1 and return within five weeks. Two years ago they were in London and were received by the late King at Buckingham Palace. Fourteen months ago King George honored the minister with a title.

Sir Herbert again today stressed the importance of Canadians visiting the Orient. "I think a group of British Columbia newspapermen should visit Japan and study conditions at first hand," he said. "They would meet with the utmost courtesy at the hands of Japanese officials and would come away with a clearer conception of affairs there. I would be glad to do all in my power to help promote such a trip."

When Sir Herbert first went to Tokyo he and his wife lived in one of the Matsukata residences, while the Chancellery was in a down-town business building. The minister felt Canada was not properly represented in such an arrangement, and he advanced the money to the government to build a new legation, which was opened about three years ago.

Before sailing for England, Sir Herbert hopes to meet the Hon. R. B. Bruce, his successor, in Ottawa. Mr. Bruce is expected to pass through Victoria in the autumn on his way to Japan.

Navy Man Held On Charge of Giving Japan U.S. Data

Associated Press
Washington, July 14.—John S. Farnsworth, former lieutenant-commander in the United States navy, pleaded innocent today to a charge of communicating confidential naval information to a Japanese agent.

The former naval officer, arrested secretly here last night by navy representatives and J. Edgar Hoover's Department of Justice agents, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

Turnage set bond at $10,000, which Farnsworth was unable to make immediately.

Preliminary hearing of the charges against Farnsworth was postponed until July 29.

"I want to go to the hospital for a few days," the prisoner told the commissioner. "I'm feeling pretty well shot."

He was brought into the court room handcuffed. No lawyer appeared for him.

MANY QUESTIONS ASKED

Roger Robb, assistant United States district attorney, said Farnsworth would be taken to the Gallinger Hospital for treatment because of "his highly nervous condition."

The prosecutor intimated the man had faced constant questioning for a number of hours.

Farnsworth said he had been very ill and was "picked up" when he went to his former wife's home for clean clothing.

"I've had double pneumonia, neuritis and arthritis," he told reporters. Robb said that Farnsworth, who was discharged from the service nine

Scattered Points on Prairies and in Northern Ontario and Quebec Are First to Feel Welcome Change From Scorching Days; Cooler Weather Already Felt in Dakotas Is Predicted for All of North Central United States

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, July 14.—Cooling breezes, promised by the weatherman, were sweeping down from the north today to bring the first relief in a week to sections of the prairies and Ontario, but in many districts temperatures were still high and deaths slowly mounting.

The cooler weather has already touched scattered points in Ontario and northern Quebec as well as the west.

While rains were far from general, the heat-stricken prairies relished the prospect of cooler weather after thunder showers had touched parts of the three provinces.

Interior British Columbia was warm, but the coast districts remained cool.

The Maritime Provinces, likewise, were fortunate, temperatures there remaining seasonably reasonable.

KARPIS ADMITS HE KIDNAPPED

Former Enemy No. 1 Pleads Guilty at Hamm Hearing in St. Paul, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—Alvin Karpis, dethroned king of United States gangland, pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the $100,000 ransom kidnapping of William Hamm Jr., St. Paul brewer, as his case was called for trial in federal court today.

Federal Judge M. M. Joyce deferred sentence until the conclusion of the trial of Edmund C. Bartholmey, former postmaster of Bensenville, Ill., and John P. (Jack) Peifer, St. Paul night club owner, whose trial on similar charges opened this morning.

Thomas J. Newman, attorney for Karpis, told the court his client, one of the actual kidnapers of Hamm, desired to plead guilty.

Because of the intense heat virtually all the prospective jurors counsel for the government and defence and federal attaches were in shirt sleeves at the trial opened.

Third plea of guilty.

Karpis' plea was the third admission of defendants in the kidnapping. Previously, Byron Bolton, alleged machine gunner for the Barker-Karpis mob, and Charles (Big Fitz) Fitzgerald, Los Angeles, had pleaded guilty. Their sentences, likewise, have been deferred until the end of the present trial.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS AT

Windsor estimated the death rate in Essex County had jumped 75 per cent since the heat wave first struck seven days ago. Five deaths overnight brought the county total of twenty-two since Saturday, eight of which are attributed directly to heat, while the others were hastened by it.

Reports told of hot weather in southern Alberta and Manitoba and cooler weather in Saskatchewan and northern sections of the three provinces.

More rain in parts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the twenty-four hours ending 7 o'clock today was shown in the grain exchange weather map here. Temperatures were around the seventies early today in Saskatchewan, with the sky overcast. Manitoba and southern Alberta experienced eighty-degree temperatures.

Winnipeg's 1.72 inches precipitation during the night was the heaviest rainfall in Manitoba. A sprinkling of rain at Coronation was the only moisture in Alberta.

ONTARIO REPORTS

Toronto, July 14.—At least half-dozen Ontario cities and towns today reported their first relief from the heat wave that has held the province in its fiery grasp for a week, caused directly or indirectly at least 500 deaths and ruined millions of dollars worth of crops.

Other centres had, however, still to feel the cooling breezes sweeping down from the north. The death toll was still mounting, although more slowly, with victims reported in Toronto, Windsor, St. Thomas, London, Kitchener and other cities.

FOREST FIRES

Forest fires still raged in some districts, but few fresh outbreaks had been reported as weary firefighters gathered their resources for a final onslaught.

Sharp Quakes In Jamaica Today

DEATH CAUSED BY OLD WOUND

J. Kilkelly, Shot Ten Years Ago, Succumbs in Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 14.—John Kilkelly, forty, who was shot by an unidentified man here ten years ago, died in a hospital today, possibly as a result of the old wound, police believe.

Kilkelly recovered from the wound, suffered following an altercation here in 1926, but doctors failed to recover the bullet, which had entered his back and lodged in his kidney.

After being discharged from the hospital Kilkelly went to Vancouver Island, where he worked in logging camps. Last year his health began to fail and he returned here. Last Saturday he was arrested on a drunkenness charge and when released he was taken to hospital, where it was found he was suffering from pneumonia.

Dividends Soon, Says Aberhart

ALBERTA AGAIN HEARS PLEDGE

Social Credit Payments Not Later Than March 3 Next, Says Aberhart, But He Does Not State Monthly Amount

Canadian Press
Edmonton, July 14.—Payment of basic dividends within eighteen months from the change of government in Alberta, which would make them due by March 3, 1937, was reiterated by Premier Aberhart today.

"I still stand by the eighteen months and have never said anything else. If there is any change, I will give plenty of notice," he said.

"Will the period date from the time the government took office last September?"

"Yes," he replied.

The premier was asked concerning the report that dividends would be payable within six weeks, such being interpreted from his address at the Prophetic Bible conference here last Sunday.

REGISTRATION MEASURES

"Just because we are calling the members in and arranging for a six-weeks' registration period, commencing July 20, does not mean the dividends will be paid then," he said. "Naturally some preliminary work has to be done and a start made to prepare for the future."

The premier was asked if the initial basic dividend would be $25 a month.

"As I have stated many times, the $25 was used as an example," he replied.

COSTS ARE FACTOR

"The principle of the cultural heritage is that people are entitled to food, clothing and shelter. Whether that would be $25 a month at the start will depend on the costs, but we would hope to work on that as the starting point, which could be increased later, as I have said on previous occasions."

Doctors Watch Heart of Baby

Alberta Infant Born With Opening in Chest Probably Beyond Operation

Canadian Press
Edmonton, July 14.—The eight-pound baby whom Mother Nature "forgot to complete," leaving its heart fully exposed and protruding from the body, was reported in an unchanged condition at a hospital here today, but physicians said it had no ultimate chance to live.

Born to the thirty-seven-year-old wife of a farm laborer, the baby was brought to the hospital here from Willingdon, Alta., yesterday. Part of its chest wall is missing, leaving the heart exposed, but the child is otherwise normal, taking nourishment at regular intervals.

Doctors were puzzled and also fearful that infection might set in. Grafting of an artificial chest wall over the heart was discussed, an operation that would mean a tremendous amount of grafting of ribs and outer skin.

CLOSE WATCH KEPT

"It's just that nature forgot to give the child a chest and the heart naturally is extending out from the cavity," said Dr. E. W. Svarich, the attending physician. "Part of one lung is also visible," he added.

"The child is being watched closely and there is little we can do at the moment."

As the baby lay in a crib its heart beat rhythmically, the muscles "thumping" the chin at every beat. The only covering was the pericardium, the outer coat which surrounds the heart.

The heart was being covered delicately at intervals with a solution to keep it moist. Dr. Svarich explained the pericardium might deteriorate if left exposed to the air.

MOTHER IN HOSPITAL

The mother, Mrs. Fred Sadonok, was reported in good condition at the Willingdon Hospital today. She has six other children, living at the family home near Wasele, Alta., ninety-two miles northeast of Edmonton.

NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

Ottawa, July 14.—Dr. George Campbell, Ottawa child specialist, today said he was certain the child born near Edmonton with part of the chest wall missing would not live. Such a case is known as "ectopia cordis," and is "incompatible with life," Dr. Campbell said.

He had a similar case about twenty-five years ago and the child lived twenty-three days.

He was sure grafting operations would not save the child.

AVIATION DISCUSSION

Farnsworth said he had talked with representatives of some Oriental government at one time about the possibility of going abroad to organize an aviation corps.

"Of course, large pay was talked about, and I was going to get a commission," he said. "I don't know whether it was the Chinese or the Japanese I talked to."

"Were these documents they talk about part of the deal?" a reporter asked.

"All I was trying to do was to get some proof that I was in the service and knew what it was all about," he replied.

Still handcuffed, Farnsworth was led through a crowd of newsmen and spectators to a waiting automobile and whisked away to the District of Columbia jail.

CONFIDENTIAL BOOK

Farnsworth was charged with delivering to an officer of the Japanese navy a book entitled "The Service of Information and Security," described as a confidential publication of the United States navy.

He did this with reason to believe the book was to be used to the injury of this country, the charge says.

Big Drop In Crop Prospects

Ottawa Reports Fields on Prairies and in Ontario Scorched By Sun

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 14.—Farm crops throughout the prairie provinces and most of Ontario have taken a disastrous beating from blistering heat with inadequate rain, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today in its fourth all-Canada crop report.

With temperatures breaking all-time high records and rainfall light or totally absent, crop prospects in these four provinces suffered a marked reduction during the past two weeks. The report stated that unless immediate relief in the form of abundant rainfall comes large areas will be completely denuded of growing crops.

"Timely rain would bring a decided improvement, particularly in the feed situation."

FARM SCIENTISTS IN CONVENTION

Fredericton, N.B., July 14.—The 1937 convention of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists will be held in a western Canada city to be named later, it was announced today at the sixteenth annual gathering of the society here.

Emperor Haile Selassie, in exile, was asking for relief for his country from the Italian conquest. When he started his address he was interrupted by a noisy group of Italians in the public galleries, who a couple of days later left Switzerland on being told the government no longer welcomed their presence. Soon after Selassie's unique speech the League Assembly decided to lift economic sanctions from Italy and formally closed debate on the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Congressman Tells Seattle Audience Psychiatrists Are Menace in U.S.

Associated Press
Seattle, July 14.—Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, whose stay in a Maryland hospital for mental cases prevented him from attending closing sessions of the U.S. Congress, warned his constituents here yesterday evening against the "menace of psychiatrists."

Speaking on the subject "Who's Crazy?" before an audience of more than 1,000 at a gathering sponsored by the People's Forum, Zioncheck asserted mental specialists are "really one of the greatest menaces this country has."

Sanitariums, termed by the congressman as the "polite name for insane asylums," were described as "worse than penitentiaries."

"In jail, Zioncheck said, 'you can at least do something, like breaking up rocks. But in a sanitarium they put you in a room and lock you up and the psychiatrists peek at you through holes in the doors and tell you to 'keep calm, and rest.'"

"How can you people be starving in the midst of plenty? The only way you can keep collected and calm in when you are six feet under ground."

Seattle's searing Congressman assured his hearers he would run for some office, but he said he had not decided what one.

LABOR GROUP MAY BE OUSTED

Washington, July 14.—The American Federation of Labor's executive council was reported today in usually well-informed quarters to be ready to oust the United Mine Workers and eleven other rebel unions.

With a vote slated for today or tomorrow, a substantial majority of the seventeen council members was represented as feeling that suspension of the twelve unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization was the only course open to them.

"What else can we do?" That was the question that punctuated their hotel lobby talk.

They recalled that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, repeatedly had said the C.I.O. intended to organize all the workers in each mass production industry into one big industrial union without regard for the various craft unions' claim that they should enroll the skilled craftsmen.

They expressed themselves as particularly aggrieved over the failure of Lewis and his associates to answer a summons to appear before the council at its current meeting to answer charges that the C.I.O. was working at cross purposes with the federation.

In the square on the site of the grim old fortress-prison whose storming and destruction on July 14, 1789, symbolized the end of the old regime and the birth of republican France, the throng gathered.

Police and mobile guards, watchful lest the celebrations develop into riots with nationalists, broke up a series of petty clashes.

MANY RED FLAGS

In the civilian processions in Paris, masses of red flags, with the communist hammer and sickle emblem in the centre and tricolor patches in one corner, waved above the marchers' heads. Men, women and children swung along together.

Red predominated in the costumes; many marchers wearing red hats, red shirts and red skirts.

IN OTHER TOWNS

Mobile guards were called for brief actions in the towns of Bar-le-Duc and Lille.

At Montepeller, the spectacle of a group of communist adherents of the People's Front chanting the "Marseillaise" and the "Internationale" enraged rightist youths during a military parade and provoked a street fight between the two groups.

Police dispersed the demonstrators and the review proceeded.

VEYSTON TOPS SPEED RECORD

Automobile Association officials pending final checking.

The Englishman, who started his record run Sunday at 7:29 a.m. Pacific Standard Time, shattered a dozen or more official and unofficial records for various distances on the way to the forty-eight-hour triumph.

He set his new marks on a ten-mile circular course within sight of the dazzling white speedway on which his countryman, Sir Malcolm Campbell, last year hung up the all-time measured mile record of 301 miles an hour.

TOOK TURNS AT WHEEL

Eyston, alternating at the wheel with his relief driver, Bert Denier, drove a Rolls-Royce special, powered with a twelve-cylinder airplane motor capable of 450 horsepower. The car is streamlined with a stabilizing fin at the rear. The driver sits low under a sliding top which may be pulled open if desired.

RESULT FORESEEN

Long before Eyston crossed the finish line it was apparent a new forty-eight-hour record was in the making.

Early last night, the lean, tanned Briton completed 5,000 miles in the record time of 142.61. The old mark of 109.54 was held by the same quartette of Frenchmen from whom he snatched the forty-eight-hour record. The strain began to tell in the pre-dawn hours as the two-ton racer roared on across the table-smooth surface of this dry bed of an ancient saline sea, 110 miles west of Salt Lake City.

HALF-HUNDRED FOREST FIRES

Men in Northern Ontario Fight Numerous Outbreaks

Canadian Press
Port Arthur, July 14.—Rain to quench widespread forest fires was the crying need of northern Ontario's mineral and forest belt today.

Hot, dry weather, bringing about fifty fires to various parts of the northern area, continued today as fire-fighters were kept active.

Thirty-nine women and children from the Bankfield district reached Port Arthur today. They were ordered to leave Bankfield in the Geraldton district, 160 miles east of here, last night by Ontario forestry officials.

Men remain in the district, prepared to defend mining properties from forest fires.

Beardmore, a new mining town 125 miles east of here, was still threatened by approaching fires today.

TOWN IS SAFE

Geraldton, Ont., July 14 (Canadian Press).—Five hundred citizens of this town, 160 miles from Port Arthur, relaxed today after an anxious night in which they were ready to flee by train at a moment's notice from forest fires which had already swept away one settlement.

After wiping out the mining headquarters of Hard Rock, three miles east of here, flames threatened to move on to this town, but today were believed to be waning.

Thousands of dollars damage was done when flames hit Hard Rock.

Seventeen Held After Two Slain

Associated Press
Madrid, July 14.—Seventeen Spanish assault guards were held for questioning today in connection with the murder of Jose Calvo Sotelo, one of the country's most powerful monarchist leaders.
The guard members belonged to the company of the slain assault guards captain, Jose de Castillo, killed Sunday night by alleged fascists.
Although an official version of Calvo's death was lacking, the Claridad, Socialist paper, asserted the assassins belonged to Capt. Castillo's company, and expressed the belief the members lost their heads and decided to avenge their captain's death by slaying Sotelo.
In the early hours yesterday the Rightist leader was taken from his home by several men. Shortly thereafter the body was found in the municipal cemetery, clubbed and shot.

Many in Britain Support Proposal Reich Be Given Colonies, Says South African Defence Minister After London Visit

Canadian Press
Pretoria, Union of South Africa, July 14.—Hon. Oswald Pirow, Defence Minister, stated here today on his return from London that "there can be no permanent basis for a peaceful agreement with Germany unless the Germans are given adequate compensation for their colonies," which they lost in the Great War.
This meant, he added in an interview with Reuters, territorial compensation "not anywhere on the face of the globe but in Africa. I found a lot of support in London for the view that Germany's co-operation in Africa is vital for the maintenance of white civilization on the continent."

HELP FOR CATTLE INDUSTRY URGED

Canadian Press
Calgary, July 14.—To halt forced marketing of cattle owing to the drought conditions in many western prairie districts, a suggestion has been forwarded to Ottawa that a $3,000,000 stabilization fund be set up to protect the livestock industry.
Following a week-end meeting here, directors of the Western Stock Growers' Association wired the suggestion to Prime Minister King and the Federal Department of Agriculture.

New Bus Plan For Royal City

People to Vote on Proposal at Civic Election Next January
Canadian Press
New Westminster, July 14.—The City Council has put its stamp of approval on the proposed bus system of transportation in the city, following the announcement of Mayor E. J. Hume that the provincial government would grant $90,000 towards the proposal.
It was decided at a meeting yesterday to put the proposed new system, which would substitute buses for street cars throughout the city and vicinity, before the people at the next civic election in January.

WIND CAUSES LOSS OF VIOLIN

Associated Press
Philadelphia, July 14.—The wind played an expensive role in the third act of "Faust" at Robin Hood Dell. Billowing in a gust of wind, the curtain swung out suddenly from the stage, sending Sam Gibson, a stage hand, clattering down into the orchestra pit. He landed on Joseph Chudnovsky's valuable Guadagnini violin.
Chudnovsky said the instrument, smashed to pieces, was valued at $3,500.

FISH FALL IN RAIN

Mexico City, July 14.—Associated Press.—It rained fish in Agua Calientes, a dispatch to the newspaper El Grafico said today. Belief prevailed a waterfall had scooped the fish from the sea, carrying them over the town, where they were released during a heavy rain yesterday.

WORKMAN INJURED

Kamloops, B.C., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—T. D. Kilpatrick of Vancouver, British Columbia government carpenter foreman, suffered fractures of vertebrae yesterday when he fell fifteen feet from the false work of the Thompson River bridge being built here and landed on hard packed sand.

Pigs Are Found To Be Music Critics

Experiments at Cornell University Show They Respond Best to Highest Type of Composition

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Ithaca, N.Y., July 14.—Pigs are good music critics.
A pair of them, in a physiological experiment announced today at Cornell University, were placed in a room with a phonograph playing the Brahms Concerto No. 3.
They uncured their tails and walked round and round, waving them in fairly good time to the music. But when "The Music Goes Round and Round" was played, the pigs curled up their tails and walked out.
The experiment, directed by Dr. Howard Scott Liddell, reveals the pig as an unusual animal subject for getting at the physiological machinery on which are based the esthetic experiences of hearing and performing music. Their breathing seemed to grow progressively shallower and shallower.

EXPERIMENTS FOR YEARS
The pigs' music test was incidental to a study of nerve reactions, which the physiologists have been conducting with animals for several years. The experiments show there is a sound basis for the musical appreciation of the pig.
His ear appears more discriminative of tones than a dog's. One reason for this discrimination in the meaning of tones, Dr. Liddell says, is probably the fact that the pig's ear possesses one of the longest known cochleas. The cochlea is an inner organ of hearing, shaped somewhat like a small spiral shell. The pig's cochlea is a perfect spiral, and has one more turn than the human ear.

BOGUS POLICE OFFICER HUNTED

Canadian Press
Nelson, B.C., July 14.—Police are hunting a bogus policeman around this district today—and all because the bogus officer's first "pinch" decided to fight the charge.
A tourist, driving south from Fernie, was stopped by a man in a truck who said, all in one breath, that he was a police officer, that the tourist had been speeding and to hand over a $10 fine on the spot or he would take him to Fernie, where the penalty would be higher.
The tourist decided to go to Fernie. The bogus officer drove hurriedly away, but not before the tourist had got his number.
Then it was discovered the police had no plain clothes police officers riding in trucks and so they are now hunting one in this district.

FALL SESSION OF ALBERTA HOUSE

Canadian Press
Lethbridge, Alta., July 14.—A fall session of the Alberta Legislature was "almost certain," Hans Wight, M.P. for Lethbridge, said yesterday evening. Mr. Wight made this observation when he announced his readiness to answer Premier Aberhart's call for Legislature members to assist in the organization plans leading to registration of the province's citizens. The members were asked to offer their names to the government without pay.

Urges Writers All Join Group

Dr. Pelham Edgar Addresses Canadian Authors' Association at Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 14.—Branches of the Canadian Authors' Association were not self-admiration societies, Dr. Pelham Edgar, Toronto, said in his presidential address today to the association's national convention.
"We must accept the fact," said Dr. Edgar, "that a considerable though diminishing body of creative writers still holds aloof from us. I would gently urge their position is unsound. I can forgive them for not being passionately addicted to meetings, but if an element of intellectual snobbery enters into their decision, that is not to be so readily condoned."

ALWAYS A MIXTURE
"It is folly to expect a society 800 strong should be high-calibered from stem to stern. We are bound to be a mixture, but we do most importantly need the adherence and the loyalty of all the writers of power in the country. Therefore with all the emphasis I can command I urge them to associate themselves with our movement. Most of them we have in our ranks, but until we can present a united front of all the best literary brains in the country we shall not have accomplished the task we set out to perform."
"I do not appeal to those still outside our ranks to associate themselves with us because of the advantages we can bestow on them, but rather ask them to realize the added strength they may bring to a movement that is disinterestedly and with increasing power working in the interests of the Canadian author."

POETRY MAGAZINE
Dr. Edgar referred to launching by the society of The Canadian Poetry Magazine. He admonished the branches and general public to support this enterprise. "We are continuing to publish with no funds in our treasury," he said. "If there can not be found in the whole country 1,000 subscribers we may as well divert our energies to politics and commerce and bid our poets emigrate."

Australian-U.S. Trade Restrictions

Associated Press
Washington, July 14.—Secretary of State Hull told Senator Hiram W. Johnson yesterday Australian regulations against American products, if continued, would cost the United States export trade $7,000,000 annually.
Negotiation of a trade agreement with the Australian Commonwealth was not practicable, however, at this time, Mr. Hull said.
Senator Johnson had filed with the State Department a protest from the Foreign Trade Club of southern California against licensing regulations imposed by Australia against certain United States articles.
Mr. Hull told Senator Johnson the country has retaliated by suspending application of Australian products of duties proclaimed in connection with trade agreements between the United States and other countries.

Short-sighted Business

SHIPS AT COWICHAN DISTRICT
Ports have been loading cargoes of un-trimmed logs for Australia. These logs are the raw material for lumber mills "down under." The export of this unmanufactured timber from this island has been increasing. Operators have even recently been buying British Columbia mill plants, shipping them to Australia there to employ Australian labor cutting British Columbia logs into lumber.

This is a trade our governments should discourage. When our timber, which is a non-recurring resource, is exported in log form, British Columbia labor and industry is deprived of two-thirds of the work that would be coming its way if the raw material were manufactured here to be exported as semi-finished or finished lumber.

Schuschnigg Explains

IN AN INTERVIEW IN VIENNA
Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria declares the agreement into which his country has just entered with Germany—a pact to improve diplomatic and other relations between the two nations—will not alter the status of the republic carved out of the former Hapsburg empire. He says she will retain her complete independence and steadfastly refuse to join any warlike combination.

In recent months there has been considerable speculation as to whether any really intensive bargaining has been going on in Europe in favor of the restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty. One or more of the three countries forming the Little Entente—Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia—would strenuously object to any definite move in this direction. Indeed, it was reported some time ago that in the event of any attempt at restoration, the Yugoslav government would undertake, and the German government would approve, military action against Austria. This might easily mean the gobbling up of Austria, with Yugoslavia as the "collector" for Germany—resulting in a Nazi bloc of the Germanic peoples.

As Chancellor Schuschnigg says, however, the restoration of the Hapsburgs will remain dormant for the time being because the opposition of the Little Entente makes it inadvisable to raise the question. It was decided before, of course, that restoration in any case would depend entirely upon popular verdict by plebiscite, not through any form of coup or putsch.

In brief, the Vienna-Berlin agreement is simply one to provide for the resumption of normal relations, since they can not be normal between two countries when one is constantly trying to direct the internal policies of another, as Germany had been trying to do in devious ways for many months past. It was this state of affairs which frustrated the efforts of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss to do what Schuschnigg now appears to have accomplished. It will be recalled that in those days Germany got in a lot of underground work with Austrian Nazis by subsidization and instigation, all of which produced a troublesome condition, not the least tragic phase of which was the assassination of Dollfuss himself, the penalty he paid for his hostility to Fascism.

Explaining the origin of the agreement which caused not a little excitement in European chancelleries over the week-end, Chancellor Schuschnigg states that the pact contains Germany's reaffirmation of her recognition of Austria's independence, that Austria will continue her general policy, but under the designation of "a German State," while each nation agrees not to try to influence the other's internal affairs.

That thorny point in the relations between the two Germanic countries for long has been Anschluss—union of Germany and Austria—prohibited by a specific clause of the Treaty of Versailles, insisted on by France in order that Germany should be kept as impotent as appeared possible at that time. Things have undergone a radical change in the meantime. If the Hitler government abides by the new arrangement, however, an irritating controversy will have been settled, the beneficial effect of which may be felt in the wider international realm.

Hummingbirds

HUMMINGBIRDS SEEM TO BE A
coming fad. A week ago we were reading about the eagerness of members of the party of British journalists to see hummingbirds in action during the visit to Victoria and how some of the party arose at 6 o'clock in the morning to have their curiosity satisfied when the birds obliged by appearing in the gardens of the Empress Hotel.

The members of this party had seen many wonders—that impressed, if not amazed, them during their tour across Canada to participate in the C.P.R. and Vancouver Jubilee celebrations. But because there are no hummingbirds in Britain outside of zoos, seeing the hummingbirds busy in their native habitat in Victoria proved to be one of the high points of the trip. There will be much space in the British papers during the next few months devoted to the hummingbirds in Victoria.

The papers told how on the maiden trip of the Queen Mary across the Atlantic she brought a shipment of tiny stained-glass phials which are filled with sugar-water and hung on the porch to lure hummingbirds. People are now writing to papers in the east asking where these phials may be obtained. We had never suspected there was such a latent interest in hummingbirds or that they had such attraction possibilities.

That $100 Exemption

WHEN THE PROPOSAL FOR
the $100 customs exemption for tourists returning from United States was under discussion in the House of Commons at Ottawa, there were predictions that it would allow the importation, duty free, of $50,000,000 worth of goods a year. A half year's experience with the exemption, however, indicates the total imports for the year will amount to only about $1,000,000. During May, the first of the busy travel months, the total of goods coming in under the exemption was $107,000 worth, according to the returns to the Department of National Revenue. It is suggested that this is only about the amount that was being brought in previously undeclared during a correspondingly busy travel month.

Canadians returning from the United States are gaining familiarity with the limits of the exemption. It is provided that the traveler must have spent at least forty-eight hours in the United States; he must be prepared to declare that he did not go over purposely to buy the goods; and that the goods are for personal or household use and not for sale here. He can avail himself of the privilege only once every four months. Goods brought in must be included in the baggage, which excludes such articles as automobiles, cabinet radios, washing machines and bathtubs. Ottawa has explained, for instance, that a small radio, tires and tubes can qualify for exemption only if in the traveler's baggage and not if installed in a car. There are limits on liquor and tobacco.

The operation of the exemption so far has eliminated much annoyance at the border, without any noticeable injury to the trade of merchants on this side. This is no doubt at least partly due to the fact that on most standard lines of goods prices are the same on both sides of the border. It is in the specialty lines that the desire of the visitor to buy is aroused. It is the same with American visitors to this side. Their purchases here are chiefly of specialties which are not available in their own part of United States. But they take them home, duty free, under the $100 United States exemption, which is such a business stimulant to many specialty shops in Victoria.

Nature Has Last Word

THE DROUGHT IN THE MIDwest is a timely little reminder of the old proverb: Man proposes, but God disposes.

We can make plans, arrange finances, pass laws, and erect protective walls, but in the end Nature has the last word. Whether the farmers of a given territory are to have a good or a bad year depends, in the last analysis, on mysterious forces which we cannot control and which we only begin to understand.

The wind, as a writer in ancient Palestine remarked, bloweth where it listeth; and if it blows dry and hot, week after week and month after month, with never a rain cloud to ride on its crest, the people underneath it are going to suffer, whether they have farmed their land wisely or foolishly.

Perhaps it is not altogether a bad thing for us to rediscover this old truth. It may take a little of the twentieth century cockiness out of us.

Notes

Before any actress is chosen for a part in a Dracula or Frankenstein film, we assume she must undergo a scream test.

Nature is kind to most of us. She enables us to scorn wealth or noble birth or big muscles or anything else we do not have.

"We have become sport conscious in Germany," says Mr. Max Schmeling. Which, probably, is why he made Mr. Joe Louis unconscious in America.

Women today are finding jobs in increasing numbers, but the basic inequality of pay still faces the feminine employee. That is to say, a woman seldom draws pay equal to that drawn by a man for the same job. Adherence to tradition still operates to the great disadvantage of thousands of able women workers.

Canada's crime bill, according to Liberty, amounts to more than $160,000,000 a year. This covers the cost of law enforcement, courts of justice, depredation of criminals and presumably the maintenance of reformatories and jails. It works out at a little more than a levy of $1 a month on every man, woman and child in the country. Crime may not pay, but it costs enough.

The latest edition of the Social Register in New York shows an increase during the last year in the number of deaths of socially prominent men. There is no increase, however, in the death rate of socially prominent women. This is raising the question as to whether prosperity is being won back at the cost of the lives of highly-placed male citizens. Of course, their death rate increase may be the result of returning affluence. Women may be of the more emotional sex, but they have the advantage of a greater equanimity in the swirling currents of material affairs.

Loose Ends

The strange and interesting social habits of Vice-Minister Yuzawa—another disillusionment with nature in the raw—and certain explanations about small towns and large.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

GEM

FREQUENTLY a news dispatch needs, or at least invites, explanation and comment in order to make it interesting and misleading. Sometimes, but seldom, an item comes off the wires so perfect that, to embroider it by one word, is sacrilege, like painting the lily. Such a gem of purest ray of serene simplicity has just been published in the great Japanese newspaper "Nichi Nichi," and I appear it here without disturbing its original purity and simple charm. Said "Nichi Nichi":

"Vice-Minister Yuzawa of the Home Office, on the occasion of his daughter's wedding was so much moved with his delight that he licked the face of the bridegroom, to the surprise of the assembly. To speak the truth, Mr. Yuzawa has the curious habit of licking people's faces when he gets drunk."

Since his appointment as Vice-Minister of Home Affairs, his closest friends, much concerned over his notorious habit, advised him to correct the curious habit. Seeing much truth in the advice, Mr. Yuzawa has been refraining from it as much as possible, but when he attends a drinking party and gets drunk, he feels the temptation and is often seen licking his own hands to comfort himself in his melancholy state.

"When Mr. Yuzawa begins licking his hands, his friends get frightened, and say: 'Don't get too close to him.'"

ANT

AS I HAVE SAID here before, one loses many illusions about nature when one views her in the raw, as at our lake. On Sunday, for example, we thought we would follow the scriptural advice and go to the ant, observe his ways and be wise. There are plenty of ants to observe up at our lake; also lawbreakers, and bondsmen, recovering from the week's hard work.

For two hours another observer and I watched half a dozen ants rushing about on the ground near a nest which seemed to lie under an old log, and so far as we could see, that is exactly what they did—rush about.

We followed one ant who traveled nearly a hundred yards as fast as his legs would carry him, evidently on an errand of importance, as if the life of the whole colony depended on him getting to his objective in a minimum of time. Here, we thought, is a remarkable instinct which guides this little traveler through this great jungle of rocks and trees to some far-off place where there is food for his family. But when he got a hundred yards from the nest, he just turned around and came home at the same frantic speed.

All the ants seemed to be doing that, just rushing hither and thither in the same way. Now, that the old legend about them is just one of those clever fabrications built up by a press agent.

This first-hand investigation of the ants has robbed us of one of our most cherished inspirations, for whenever I have been tempted to take it easy, I have always thought of the ants and gone to work. Now I realize that the ants are all too like us to work. It is said with admiration that ants are almost human.

That is the trouble with them. Human beings behave in the same fashion. They like to herd together in the vast confusion of cities and they spend most of their time rushing hither and thither, going about with no place to no place and having no end to the end of it. Nature is very disillusioning when you see it in the raw.

SMALL TOWN MAN
THE OTHER DAY I was talking to a man who lives by choice in one of the little towns on the island. He has traveled most places, seen the world and has settled in a village, rather than in Victoria, because he likes it. I asked him how the more pretentious aspects of life could be content among the simple people of the country and the intellectual stagnation of its surroundings. His answer I considered significant:

"That, my friend, is where you are quite wrong," said he. "The people in the small town are not half as stagnant intellectually as the people of a big city. The small-town man is broader in his ideas than the big city man. He knows more about what is happening in the world. He has more ideas. He usually has more intelligence, also."

"I lived in New York for a long time, and I found that the average New Yorker, so slick and shiny on the surface, is beneath it the biggest lunk in the world. He knows nothing but New York and an endless round of pavements and subways. He has no notion of what is going on. He thinks New York is the world. He is too busy, anyway, to think about anything."

On a smaller scale, Vancouver is the same. A large part of the population of Vancouver thinks Vancouver is British Columbia and doesn't trouble to look further. But the man in the small town has his eyes on all his place. He reads the outside papers and he has time to think. I tell you, I have heard more wisdom in the beer parlor in our little town on a Saturday night than I've heard among the big shots of Wall Street. I dare say there is more intelligence scattered about Vancouver Island—mostly outside Victoria, because even you are getting too big, you know—than you could find in all Vancouver.

"Why, the best brain I have ever met, and I have seen some of the most famous, lives on a little farm in the Comox Valley in a house that cost $200 to build and has no plumbing. That's why I live in a village—not for love of nature and the outdoors but because I'm interested in people. That is where they live. Only the shadows of people live in cities. You," said my friend to me, "are one of them."

This, I am convinced, is true.

DELAY IN COINS

The New Yorker runs a story about Britain's coinage. Referring to the age-old tradition that successive rulers face in opposite directions, it claims to have received inside information in respect to a delay in minting the coins bearing the likeness of King Edward VIII.

According to the tradition, the new King should face right, showing his right profile. But King Edward parts his hair on the left and, somewhat naturally, prefers the left view. According to the story, when His Majesty was informed that he was breaking a custom dating back for many generations, he "erupted" and said: "Why shouldn't I?"

To the Editor:—Has there not been too much levity concerning Count Van Oudenlof?

There was the same scoffing in Victoria when poor Lord Montagu suffered reverses.

TOO MUCH LIKE A LADY

To the Editor:—According to verbal history, the great Lord "K. of K." once greeted his brother, Major, or Colonel Kitchener, with the following sweet remark: "You led your men like a lady, sir, like a lady—report in Stellenbosch."

This is the plain verdict some of us would like to hear passed on Mr. Anthony Eden.

He may behave, in social and everyday life, like a most charming lady, and his portrait published in connection with hats, and other fascinating details of a woman's wardrobe, may be inspiring to certain people, but to others it would seem more correct for a real man to fill the position he has been enjoying in the British Government.

If a man of the necessary stamp cannot be found in the entire length and breadth of the British Isles, surely the British Government could borrow one from the Dominions, where they breed men, not artificial dolls.

SUSPECTS "COLONIAL" REFERENCE

To the Editor:—The letter written from Duncan, signed "Defence," is precisely the kind of letter which someone who hates England would wish an Englishman to write to a Canadian paper. Every word and phrase is calculated to stir up bad feeling and make English ridiculous and offensive to Canadians.

Until a birth certificate of the writer is produced I prefer the theory that the letter was written under false colors as propaganda by someone who never saw England. I have known hundreds of Englishmen personally both here and in my native country, and while living in England for some years. Not one of them ever called me a "colonial." The phrase still lingers among the older generation of stay-at-homes, who are unaware of Canadian sentiments on the point, but it is not meant to be an insult or to stir up trouble. Rather, it is a word of admiration like our word "pioneer."

I never heard of an Englishman talking or writing about the Motherland having to "step in and govern Canada again," and I don't believe there is such an animal. I never saw the word "un-British" before, and the phrase "un-British news" sounds phony to me. So does the labored insult to American republicans and their alleged boasts over the "wireless."

The phrase "and all that" sounds like a stage Englishman, as does the "what?" in the sentence, "Something to think about, what?" Neither of these two phrases is ever used in letters or printed English, and they are seldom used in conversation.

"JUSTICE BLIND"

To the Editor:—We have had so many letters in the press recently criticizing the severity of the sentence imposed on one, King, that I am impelled to follow suit and comment adversely on the punishment meted out last August on two brutal thugs—now enjoying good food, beds, and some exercise, with, perhaps, a little radio music thrown in—at Oakalla prison.

These murderous brutes held up a watchman, aged seventy-five, at the point of a gun, and, after his refusal to open the safe, was knocked about the head with the butt of a revolver; robbed, kidnapped and taken away in a car, again beaten and thrown out on the road. They were sentenced—one to two years and the other to fifteen months! Now it appears that their victim is near death. I am referring to George Low, the watchman of the Cowan Dodson Bakery in Vancouver.

Considering the ridiculously light punishment imposed on these two brutes, I think it is about time some overhauling of our system is necessary lest we get into the bad habits of our neighbors to the south and, instead of punishing crime, very often seem to pay a premium to it.

Now, suppose poor old Low departs this life after the liberation of these two brutal cowards! Will they have received their just deserts? As it is, should he die before the completion of the prison term, other charges may be laid against them.

With all due deference to the judge who tried them, I would suggest that for a crime of this magnitude, ten years seems not too severe.

I am afraid that, instead of our judges being severe, they, as a rule, instead of seasoning justice with mercy, allow the latter to predominate the former. How about the establishment of a board of review on sentences in this country?

GETTING AFTER EDITORS

From The Montreal Gazette
German editors must now prove their Aryan ancestry and that of their wives back to 1800. Perhaps it is the fact that there is some doubt as to the origin of the Aryan race that induced the makers of the new press regulations not to call for proof of editorial ancestry back to Adam, the husband of Eve, and the first man. Or maybe it was the fear that Adam was not an Aryan. But even at 1800, the regulation rather puts the German editors "on the spot." Some of them may not be able to furnish proof farther back than their grandfathers and grandmothers.

BEST HORROR STORY OF YEAR IS THIS

A few years ago an unpretentious book called "Night Over Fitch's Pond" was published, and those who read it wrote down the name of its author, Cora Jarrett, as that of a woman from whom some first-rate fiction might be expected.

Those expectations are justified right up to the hit by Miss Jarrett's new novel, "Strange Houses" (Farrar and Rinehart). For this is one of the most unusual and completely readable novels of recent years; it is that rarity, a brand-new kind of horror story, flawlessly executed.

Probably it is unfair to say "horror story" for this is no cheap thriller. Its horror is a blend of the emotional and the intellectual arising from Miss Jarrett's skill in making you accept, without reservations, a thing which ordinarily you would consider impossible. It is built up slowly to an almost unendurable tension.

Briefly, the story has to do with an unscrupulous psychiatrist who experiments with thought transference until he manages to compel a cultured and religious society woman of advanced years to exchange bodies with a bawdy young night club strip dancer.

From that start the story could become either a rollicking Thorne Smith farce or an eerie tragedy. Miss Jarrett follows the second course and misses not a bet.

To tell how the plot is worked out might spoil the story for you; let it be enough to say that Miss Jarrett makes you believe in this fantastic transformation and carries you along into the most uncanny, shivery and entirely fascinating novel of recent years.

Right Count, Wrong Play

Declarer Figures Proper Lay of Cards for Slam, Then Fails to Make His Contract

By WM. E. McKENNEY

Even though a hand is bid properly, there still is something left in the play, as every bridge player has found to his cost from time to time.

I think it is not too much to say that more than half the time, when a hand goes down one trick, declarer could have made his contract had he chosen a different and usually sounder line of play.

SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS CONTRACT PROBLEM

The method by which today's contract was reached might be termed optimistic.

West's opening lead was the deuce of clubs, which was won by South with the ace. Declarer could see eleven sure tricks in four diamonds, three spades, three clubs and one heart. If the club lead was a fourth best, another club trick could not be made.

South decided that his one chance to make his contract was to find West with the king of hearts, and thus make the trick needed for his slam. South's reasoning was correct, but his application was bad, as he at once led the nine of hearts, hoping that West would let the queen win.

But West went right up with the king, and returned a heart, dropping both the ace and queen, and the hand was defeated.

If South, instead, had cashed his tricks in diamonds, spades and clubs, and used his last club to put West in the lead, then West would have been forced to lead away from his king of hearts, thus giving declarer his contract.

LIBRARY WORK IS APPROVED

City Council Authorizes Expenditure of $2,200 For Mezzanine Floor

Construction of a mezzanine floor at the Public Library to meet the increasing demand for more space for equipment was authorized by the City Council yesterday evening.

The work will cost $2,200 and was approved, with Alderman Andrew McGavin opposing it.

Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, said the money could be taken from the $100,000 government loan. The work should be done as the library provided a useful service to 22,800 subscribers. Students used the reference daily, he said, in support of his argument of the institution's usefulness.

Alderman Archie Willis asked why the authorizing of this expenditure had not come from the special committee appointed to administer the loan fund. Recently the council had been told by the chairman of the finance committee that the loan was being over-expended, and yet Alderman Brown was bringing this expenditure before the council.

Alderman Brown assured there was a balance of about $10,000, which would more than cover the work and take care of any over-expenditure. Alderman Willis replied that he was favorable to the library project but said there were several other projects which need consideration out of this fund.

As an instance of one job which should be done, Alderman Willis said Collinson Street needed repaving to provide an adequate roadway, to St. Joseph's Hospital and provide a good outlet from Fairfield Road to Douglas Street.

Alderman James Adam concurred with him on this point.

SEEK STREET WORK

After the library work had been authorized by vote of the council, Alderman Willis moved, and Alderman Adam seconded a motion to have $800 put aside for the Collinson Street job.

Alderman Brown protested this was not proper procedure and the work should not be done until there was a report from the special committee on the estimated cost.

Alderman Willis agreed to withdraw his motion and seconded Alderman Brown's motion that the repaving of Collinson Street be referred to the special committee for report.

Those affected by the new schedule are: G. M. Irwin, chief engineer; C. Jones, assistant engineer; George A. O'Neil, assessor and collector; A. Taylor, R. Beggs and A. V. Danby, collector's department; A. Joyce, cashier; H. G. McKenzie, comptroller's department; W. Percy Wright, city clerk's office; C. Norman auditor; W. E. Farmer Jr., and G. Cannon, water-works department; G. Frampton and G. Sehl, relief department.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins was appointed chairman and the following were made members: Mayor Leeming, Alderman P. R. Brown, Walter Lunny, J. D. Hunter and James Adam.

One Tender For Watershed Timber

A tender from D. P. Garrison for timber on the Sooke Lake watershed was received by the City Council yesterday evening and referred to the water committee for investigation and report.

Mr. Garrison's tender was the only one received for the timber, which will be cut under a system of selective logging. The tender was accompanied by $500 cheque as 5 per cent of the initial payment of $10,000, which is required to be paid in cash within six days of the acceptance of the tender.

INCREASES FOR CIVIC WORKERS

Fifteen City Hall Employees Receive Raises Due Under Reorganization

Increases in salaries for civic employees, totalling approximately $125 a month, were authorized by the City Council on recommendation of the finance committee yesterday evening.

The increases affect fifteen employees whose positions were altered in the reorganization of the City Hall staff last year and will be made retroactive to July 1.

Action of the committee was protested by Alderman Ed. Williams, who did not attend the meeting but filed his protest in writing. He said as chairman of the relief committee he had been forced to recommend against extra days' work for relief employees, because the city could not afford it and he opposed any increases to employees who were getting $150 a month.

INCOMPARABLE CASES

Alderman P. R. Brown, finance committee chairman, said relief cases could not be compared with these raises. Relief was relief only, and coming to those affected under the reorganization, and which they had been given to understand they would receive. The extra amount was budgeted for in the estimates, he said.

If the increases had been suggested by D. A. MacDonald, city comptroller, and was told by Alderman Brown both the comptroller and the city assessor had concurred with the recommendations.

Those affected by the new schedule are: G. M. Irwin, chief engineer; C. Jones, assistant engineer; George A. O'Neil, assessor and collector; A. Taylor, R. Beggs and A. V. Danby, collector's department; A. Joyce, cashier; H. G. McKenzie, comptroller's department; W. Percy Wright, city clerk's office; C. Norman auditor; W. E. Farmer Jr., and G. Cannon, water-works department; G. Frampton and G. Sehl, relief department.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins was appointed chairman and the following were made members: Mayor Leeming, Alderman P. R. Brown, Walter Lunny, J. D. Hunter and James Adam.

LET CONTRACT AT FAIRBRIDGE

New Buildings to Cost $50,000 to Be Erected By Victoria Firm

Further work at the Fairbridge Farm School near Duncan, involving an expenditure of approximately $50,000, will be undertaken immediately.

The contract has been placed with Williams, Terrie and Williams, Victoria contractors, who have handled all the contract work at the Fairbridge School since it was established on Vancouver Island.

The tenders were opened by the school directors recently at the offices of Leo A. Grogan, auditor, and forwarded to London by cable for consideration by the parent body.

A return cable was received in the city yesterday announcing that Williams, Terrie and Williams were the successful contractors.

It was stated that the work on the four cottages, dining hall and four school classrooms would be commenced at once, with the reservation that the auditorium could be erected as late as next spring, if found more convenient.

Rose Lord of Vancouver, is the architect for the group of buildings just awarded. Karl B. Spurgin of Victoria, designed the original buildings at the Fairbridge School site.

The fifty boys and girls, who came out from England last year as the initial group to be installed on the farm, will be increased in number as the accommodation at Fairbridge is extended.

The Child Emigration Society of Great Britain, sponsors of the Fairbridge schools in Canada and Australia, plans to eventually establish some 400 children on the Vancouver Island farm, it is understood.

Before the scheme is completed a regular townsite will be established at Fairbridge.

STAR STUDIES ARE STARTED

Dr. R. M. Petrie Speaker at Astronomical Meeting

Telling legends of such ancient constellations as the Big Bear, Hercules and Andromeda, Dr. R. M. Petrie yesterday evening addressed about twenty-five students and many visitors at Victoria College, in the first class of the Royal Canadian Astronomical Society summer course.

Dr. Petrie's talk followed an introduction by the president of the local centre, Lieut. - Commander H. N. Tingley, and brief instruction in astronomical terminology by Miss Phoebe Riddle, B.A.

"Mankind has watched the stars since the earliest days," said Dr. Petrie in his address on the group of stars and their locations, "and around them all sorts of interesting legends have been woven."

He described first the constellation named by the Greeks, Orion and Taurus, in which the primitive people imagined they could see a gladiator and a bull. The oldest and best-known constellation, the Great Bear was found to have the same name all over the world, North American Indians, Laplanders and the ancient people of the Euphrates finding a similar symbol in it.

In the Bear Driver, sometimes called the Huntsman or the Ploughman, the figure of a man with hunting dogs could be imagined, following close on the heels of the Great Bear.

Dr. Petrie pointed out the star Arcturus in this constellation, which, he said, had a faster apparent motion than other stars, moving two moon diameters in 2,000 years.

In the constellation Scorpius he called attention to the brilliant red star Antares, almost due south in the sky at this time of year, and out of sight much of the time.

Toward the great cluster in Hercules, the Pleiades, the solar system was steadily moving. He dealt also with Aquila, the eagle, Cygnus, the swan, and the mythical character, ers, Cassiopeia, Cepheus, Perseus and Andromeda, all found in the sky.

Although clouds prevented initial observations as planned, instruction in the use of star maps was given to the new members.

The next class, under Miss Phoebe Riddle, would take the moon as a subject of discussion, it was announced. The classes are open to the public.

Miss Riddle's talk will be preparatory to a visit to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, July 27, by special invitation of the director, Dr. W. E. Harper. On that date members of the study group will leave the city by chartered bus at 7:30 in the evening.

Sooke Invites Vancouver Island People For Big Celebration Tomorrow

All-Sooke Day tomorrow will be the third annual celebration of the progress of Sooke community.

In issuing a final invitation to residents of lower Vancouver Island today to go to Sooke and take part in the festivities, A. F. Brownsey, secretary of the celebration committee, said final preparations had been made to give everyone a good time.

Things will start moving at 12:30 o'clock, with sports on the big Sooke River flats, which form an ideal setting for the whole affair.

The baby show for prizes presented by The Victoria Daily Times will be one of the big features, and is open to any baby from a rural district of the island.

Loggers of the district will be given a chance to demonstrate their prowess in tree-chopping, log-rolling and bucking contests. There are two south island championships at stake for the men of the woods, and a spectacular demonstration is in prospect.

While those making a day of it should bring their own picnic baskets and supply their own eating utensils, the evening meal will be supplemented by barbecued spring chicken, and Sooke clam chowder, supplied by fishermen of the district.

The municipality of Esquimalt will receive applications for the position of janitor at the Municipal Hall, the situation having fallen vacant through the death of Robert Dent. Preference will be given to residents and rate-payers of the municipality. A letter of condolence was ordered sent to the relations of Mr. Dent. There was no second for a motion of Councillor Frederick O. Eaton that the position of janitor be merged with that of relief officer at a monthly salary of $90.

MUNDAY'S SEMI-ANNUAL SHOE SALE NOW IN FULL SWING AMERICAN AND CANADIAN SHOES AT ASTOUNDINGLY LOW PRICES

Flays English House-keeping

Canadian Press
Boston, July 14.—Anna Steese Richardson, who began a generation ago to coax United States women away from their hot stoves and in the direction of gas ranges and electric refrigerators, now considers the plight of their British sisters.

Scheduled to tell the Advertising Federation convention about women's demand for truth in advertising, she switched her subject at the last minute, giving her hearers what is happening in the households of England as she saw them while visiting the country recently.

"The women of Britain know nothing about housekeeping," declared the sturdy septuagenarian, pioneer of advertising. "They haven't known anything about it for generations. They have depended on a huge staff of servants. Now all the girls are working in the munitions factories—working, in fact, overtime."

"The dear English women have no resourcefulness," Mrs. Richardson continued. "They can't turn to and do housekeeping as we would. They won't learn. They just sit and weep for their maids."

Mrs. Richardson admitted that she had been entertained in England, and entertained magnificently, but always in hotels and cafes.

The viewpoint of baffled British women deprived of their servants is alien to us in this country, Mrs. Richardson asserted. "Tell our women there is a scarcity of maids and they would reply, 'We'll do it ourselves.' They'd have dinner right out of the advertising columns."

The condition of housewives in Britain is terrible. "And that, my friends," declared Mrs. Richardson, "is where America should cash in."

"The women of England," Mrs. Richardson concluded, "will still go to Ascut, trail long chiffon dresses through the mud until they are past cleaning, and throw them away the next day."

U.S. Firm Sued By Quintuplets

Associated Press
Philadelphia, July 14.—The Blossom Products Corporation of Allentown, Pa., in answer to a suit brought on behalf of the Dionne quintuplets, contended today that the word "quintuplets" is an English word to which the Dionnes have no exclusive right.

Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario minister of Public Welfare, and guardian of the children, who sued in federal court, claimed use of the word quintuplets and its various contractions in the marketing of children's clothing, which the company manufactures, was misleading to the public and damaging to the Dionnes.

The answer contended the company's registration of the word "quintuplets" as a trade mark in June, 1935, and its application for registration of "quintuplets" and "quins" with the patent office, truthfully informed the public.

Cup for Fine
Press Clipping Book

The Victoria Soroptimist Club was awarded the fine silver cup in the recent public competition conducted by the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs. The local club won in class C, competing against many cities of similar size, with its press clipping book, handsomely bound in blue with gold lettering, reflecting the club colors, and containing hundreds of press references, assembled over several years from The Daily Times and The Colonist.

The book was the entire product of members, the volume itself being made by a bookbinder member of the club.

The award was announced at the recent biennial convention of the Federation held in Kansas City, Mo., in June. Mrs. Anna E. Sprott of Vancouver, regional director for western Canada, won the directors' cup, presented by Mrs. Mary Ellen Graham, past president, to the director forming the most new clubs in her region in the last two years.

As there are no other regions but the western in Canada, Mrs. Sprott's territory covered the whole of Canada, and the new clubs formed in the last two years through her initiative included Calgary, Toronto, Chatham, Roseland-Trail, Nelson and Edmonton. These bring the number in Canada to nine.

Mrs. Alice Steele of Kansas City is the new president.

Mrs. Sprott was elected vice-president of the Federation for two years, only one vote out of the total 97 being cast against her.

Mrs. Patricia Curtis of New Westminster will succeed her as regional director for western Canada. The next convention will be held in Atlantic City in 1938.

Music New U.B.C. Matric Subject

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 14.—Beginning September, the University of British Columbia, in conjunction with the Provincial Department of Education, will offer music as an optional subject to violin and piano students in the matriculation course.

This subject, according to Roy Robertson, Vancouver, provincial president of the newly-formed Canadian Federation of Music Teachers, will be discussed at the first convention of the organization, which opens here today.

Establishment of a pensions, insurance or benevolent fund for aged and infirm music teachers will also be proposed.

Marguerite Devlin Coming With Trio

The Pro Arte Trio, which has been engaged for the Provincial Summer School, will give a concert in the Victoria High School auditorium on Friday evening, July 31.

The coming of the trio to Victoria is of particular local interest as the pianist is Marguerite Devlin, the former Oak Bay girl who went to Europe to continue her music studies some years ago, since when she has been making her home in Montreal. Associated with her in the trio is Hans Zschiedrich, violin, and Eugene Maher, cello.

Saanich Girl Is Bride In Calgary

Miss Dulce Brethour
Wed Yesterday
To Donald P. Simpson

Yesterday evening at twilight, in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Calgary, Monsignor Hetherington united in marriage Miss Dulce Christina, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Brethour and granddaughter of the late John Brethour, a pioneer of the North Saanich district, and Mr. Donald Patrick Simpson, son of Mrs. M. E. Simpson of Calgary and the late William John Simpson of Cochrane, Alberta.

In the unavoidable absence of her father, she was given in marriage by her mother, and made a radiant bride in French silk lace over white tulle. The dress, made with Elizabethan collar, had a full bodice gathered tightly at the waist, then flaring to the floor, with a short coat, the sleeves gathered tightly at the wrists and terminating at points over the fingers. Her exquisite veil of Lim-erick lace, as worn by her mother, fell from a halo of pleated Brussels net, to form a pointed train. Clusters of French orange blossoms adorned each side of the halo. Her shower bouquet was of butterfly roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Elizabeth Simpson, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant, in peach satin modeled on classic lines with short coat and large puff sleeves. She wore a large picture hat of matching material and carried a bouquet of Eucharistia carnations. The brother of the groom was best man.

A quiet reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, 932 Nineteenth Avenue West, amidst a profusion of roses and carnations.

Assisting in serving were the mothers of the principals, Mrs. Brethour wearing Italian blue flowered crepe de chine, large navy blue hat and matching accessories, and Mrs. Simpson wearing navy blue georgette over figured tulle, with matching hat and accessories. They each wore corsage bouquets of Titian roses.

A handsome three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table, with rosebuds in silver vases.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left later for a honeymoon through northern Alberta and will make their home in Calgary.

For traveling the bride donned a sky blue rajah-silk sports dress with navy trim, over which she wore a white finger tip sharkskin coat. Navy blue hat and matching accessories completed the outfit.

Pioneer Writer Dies in East

Associated Press
Baltimore, July 14.—Mrs. Carrie Ballagh Harrell, seventy-four, novelist, playwright, magazine writer and one-time foreign correspondent for the old New York Tribune, died here yesterday at the home of her daughter.

Mrs. Harrell, reputed the first white child born in Japan, was the daughter of Rev. Dr. James H. Ballagh, who established the first Protestant church in Japan.

Mrs. Harrell, able to speak and write in Chinese, introduced the Braille system in that country. For her work among the blind and deaf mutes there she was received by the Emperor.

Her husband, the late Dr. Francis W. Harrell, was the founder of St. Luke's Hospital in Japan and a member of the Order of the Rising Sun. He was a physician and a mining engineer.

Mrs. A. Penner Briggs, South Turner Street, and her daughter, Miss Frances Briggs, returned yesterday to Victoria from Courtenay where they have been spending the last ten days with Mrs. Briggs' son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Tillman Briggs. While up-Island Mrs. Briggs and Miss Frances Briggs visited the Forbidden Plateau.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie T. Willoughby returned this morning aboard the liner Empress of Japan after a honeymoon trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Willoughby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tomlin, Mount Tormie, and her parents, together with Mr. Willoughby's father, Mr. T. Willoughby, met them at the boat. The young couple proceeded with the liner to Vancouver, where they will make their home.

London, July 14.—The Duchess of Kent, with several eminent women physicians and surgeons, honored the memory of England's first woman doctor during centenary celebrations recently of Elizabeth Garrett Anderson.

Dressed in a black cape, lined with white pleated chiffon, over her black crepe de chine dress, and a flat black hat, the Duchess spent an hour in the wards and kitchens of the Elizabeth Garrett Anderson Hospital, London.

In the Memorial Hall of the hospital, the first to be staffed by women for women patients, there hangs a Sargent portrait of the eminent woman founder, her son, Sir Alan Anderson, M.P.; her grandson, Mr. Donald Anderson, and her five-months-old great-granddaughter, Gillian. Her daughter, Dr. Louisa Garrett Anderson, also a doctor, was present at the celebration.

Lady Florence Elizabeth Barrett, president of the London School of Medicine, said that Elizabeth Anderson was a pioneer who had triumphed over great difficulties and a great woman of whom her sex owed a debt of gratitude.

When Elizabeth Garrett Anderson was a girl women swooned; today they worked on equality with men.

There were some 6,000 women doctors in the country. When Elizabeth Anderson established the institution which had been dedicated to her memory it had four beds. Today there were 133.

Sir Alan Anderson described how his father had been one of the bitterest opponents of his mother when she attempted to get an appointment in a London hospital, and again when she stood as a candidate for the School Board.

"My father was defeated both times," Sir Alan added. "He was president of the School Board, and I decided to get an appointment in a London hospital, and again when she stood as a candidate for the School Board."

"The pay is about the same as we get in England," she said, "and the work appeared to be more congenial. In England, nurses fall more or less in the same category as domestic servants."

Countess Drops Suit For Libel

Associated Press
London, July 14.—Countess Haug-Revontlow, the former Barbara Hutton of New York, settled a libel suit against a London newspaper today after an apology by the publishing company.

The newspaper, The Daily Mirror, also agreed to pay the costs of the action.

Sir Patrick Hastings told the court he would not read the published paragraph on which the action was based. "It is sufficient to say it is capable of giving the impression the countess is the sort of person who welcomes publicity and likes to create a sensation about herself," Sir Patrick said. "Nothing could be further from the truth."

CAN'T SLEEP? TRY THESE REMEDIES

By ALICIA HART

Insomnia is one of the deadliest enemies of beauty. You simply can't look your best if, the night before, you tossed about for hours before falling asleep or if the bed was so uncomfortable that you couldn't really rest even after you did go to sleep.

As for sleep-producing secrets—here are several hints that readers have sent me within the past months:

A woman in Kansas says that a glassful of grapefruit juice taken immediately before retiring, makes her sleep.

A New York girl solved her insomnia troubles when she learned to cover her eyes with tiny cotton pads and to tie these in place with a narrow bandage. If not a ray of light seeps through her lids into her eyes, she is able to go to sleep quickly.

A Washingtonian always ties a clean, dark brown silk stocking over her eyes and around her head to shut out light.

Several people insist that a glass of hot milk before going to bed is the answer. Others say that it is a mistake to eat or drink anything. From these conflicting opinions, it would appear that you have to solve your own sleeping problems by the trial and error method. Try some of the tricks which have worked for others until you find one that suits you.

First of all, make sure that your bedroom is properly ventilated. You should have plenty of fresh air, but don't sleep directly in front of an open window. For the sake of your chin-lips, sleep without a pillow if you possibly can.

Of course, control over your mind is the most effective cure for insomnia. Once your head rests on the pillow, try to forget the worries of the day. You don't go to bed to solve your work-a-day difficulties. You are there to sleep. If you must think, try to conjure up some really pleasant thoughts. It is better, however, to fasten your gaze on some tiny, dark object in the room, then to think only about it until your mind is at rest. Close your eyes, continuing to think about the object. You'll be asleep sooner than you think.

Elks' Party On Show Boat

SPICY DOUGHNUTS

A whole clove, dropped in the fat in which doughnuts are to be fried, will give them a delicious, spicy flavor.

FIRST AID FOR BERRY PIE

To prevent the juice of a berry pie from running over while baking, place the pie tin in one a few sizes larger before putting it in the oven.

Appearance Big Factor in Job

Canadian Press
Boston, July 14.—Elizabeth Gregg MacGibbon has made an intensive study of women and their jobs. Last year she traveled about 28,000 miles and talked before 85,000 women in twenty-six cities.

She says that though business women "may be rated mental giants with every qualification for their jobs, sheer ability won't help them half so much as keeping themselves free of the tell-tale marks of neglect or age."

"Theoretically," continued Mrs. MacGibbon, "a girl's appearance should have nothing to do with her getting and holding a job. Actually, however, it counts 75 per cent."

The head of the alumnae placement bureau of a well-known college has found that younger women are preferred and that older women are relegated to the sidelines of business life.

"I find myself fighting harder in behalf of these fading creatures than I do for those who suffer merely from their own neglect. And if they will best themselves in the matter of dress and spirits they can command far higher pay than the kitchen thing who has no more than simple and simpering youth to recommend her."

Variegated Hair New Shock

Paris Deceives New Effects in Hats and Trimming

Associated Press
New York, July 14.—Dye your hair in two colors—blonde on one side, black on the other, some of New York's smartest hat designers advised their clients today.

French from Paris comes this suggestion for achieving a double personality, said the hat designers, who arrived home yesterday after seeing the French fall hat collections. "You can dye your hair dark in the middle and gold on both sides!" said one milliner.

"It has almost reached the stage where a woman can be two different persons."

As usual, the hat-makers were voluble about the beauty of the new hats, and—as usual—in complete disagreement as to what the new hats are like.

Interviewers came away with these diverse descriptions:

"Most of the fall hats are tall."

"The new hat are very small—'little bits'."

Asked to settle the question whether they are "small" or "tall," another designer replied, "Neither. I'd say they were medium sized."

"Black was the best color," said one designer.

"Everything was bright colors," related another, "copper, violet, red or yellow-green."

"One designer said, 'Flowers are not in style.' But another declared, 'I saw tremendous roses on the front of the hats.'"

"What," the milliners were asked, "was the outstanding trimming?" to which they replied in turn:

"Feathers!"

"Birds!"

"Big bows!"

Listeners came away with a vague picture of the new fall hats, but with a definite idea that they are quite different from last year's hats—and will make them look hopelessly out of date.

Canada's fur farms specialize in silver foxes, which represent 93 per cent of the pelts sold.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BITTERLY JEALOUS FOUR-YEAR-OLD SHOULD BE LOVED, NOT PUNISHED

Bad conduct is so often heaped by parents, by their attention to it, while the causes are completely ignored. It is futile to keep punishing a child for what she does without once directing one's attention to why she does it.

Mrs. M. G. knows so exactly the roots of her child's behavior, but she is dealing directly with the behavior and leaving the roots undisturbed.

Her four-year-old was, until the birth of her brother, the only child and grandchild. She was badly spoiled by them all. Now she knows such extreme jealousy of her brother that she cannot be left alone with him.

PUNISHMENT DOES NO GOOD

Once she stabbed him with a scissors. She is cruel to small children. She has been talked to and punished in every imaginable way. But these have had no effect upon her.

There is more to this letter, but this is enough, to show that the child's every act is impeded by her misery and unhappiness at her loss of favored position. Her jealousy, impelled the acts, and the acts brought on punishment which tends to convince her more and more that she is unloved and unwanted. Other small children represent her brother and she treats them as she had no opportunity, at present, to treat him. LET HER BE IMPORTANT

She needs a chance once more to feel important—the new importance of being the older child. Outings, games, recreations must be planned which she alone can enjoy with one or the other parent—brother left out. She must be treated now with the approval, and the affection of her parents, as if she were just exactly the kind of child they wanted. More responsibility, more privileges, more expressed affection, these will destroy the roots of her unhappiness. The behavior will take care of itself.

Our leaflet, "Dealing With Jealousy," may be helpful to mothers with this problem. It may be had for a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Chinese To Stage Big Show

U.B.C. Grads Held Dance With Mainland Orientals

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 14.—Die-hard whites and nationalistic Chinese forgot racial differences in Vancouver last night.

For the first time in Vancouver's history, Chinese girls and young graduates of the University of British Columbia danced together openly and unabashedly in a local cabaret.

The reason is that the Chinese have produced for July 18 opening a show exciting the admiration of Vancouver Golden Jubilee attraction producers.

They have extracted from the archives of Chinese museums exhibits of Chinese craft and art valued at more than $1,000,000. All this material was loaned under the traditional Chinese honor sanction.

The whites want to tie in with this celebration, which is entirely Chinese-inspired, and includes an entrance arch-tower, built by three Chinese bamboo technicians who did not use a nail or saw in the process. This tower embodies 3,000 symbolic figures.

So in order to promote the success of the Chinese carnival, the white sponsors of the jubilee last night linked their interests with the Chinese. It was a rehearsal of the fashion show which will be jointly occidental-oriental at the Chinese carnival.

CATHEDRAL A.Y.P.A.

The executive members of the Christ Church Cathedral A.Y.P.A. met recently at the home of Miss Jocelyn McGraw. During the course of the evening's business a beach party was arranged for the evening of Thursday, July 16. Transportation will leave the Memorial Hall for Beaver Lake, the destination, at 7:45 o'clock.

Refreshments will be provided by the branch and members and their friends are requested to bring a cup. A small charge will be made to cover the cost of transportation.

At the meeting plans for a new organization of the branch were discussed, one of which was a system of committees, which received considerable attention.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

RECLUSIVE CHILD GETS VICARIOUS EXPERIENCE

A lady writes about her little girl. Why is it that she insists on playing alone and won't make friends with strangers?

Of course, I don't know why. There are several reasons that might account for the fact that a child prefers his or her own company to that of others, but I doubt if any parent, and certainly not an outsider, could quite plumb the depths and put a finger on the exact spot—and cause. Sometimes it is pure diffidence, another name for our old friend inferiority. In this case shunning company is "escape" or "self protection" pure and simple.

RETREAT IS NATURAL

If experience with other children has proved uncomfortable, then it is as natural for a child to pull away and stay to himself as it would be for us. We oldsters do, the same thing. The only difference is that we can look to other circles for companionship while the child's world is limited to neighbors or a few schoolmates. If his immediate group is un congenial, or too old or too young, there isn't anything queer in his seeking peace with a book or toy.

It is good for children to play with other children, naturally, because they meet life as it is and not always as they would have it. This miniature crowd is packed full of human nature in variety and our Johnny or Susie should learn how to meet it. Perhaps. But there are times when the little group causes too much irritation, or boredom, or takes too much fight to stand up to. Then it gets to be a nuisance.

After all, many fine children grow up alone. Taking the fictional Anthony Adverse as example (and he must have counterparts in real life), you have a case where the socially starved youngster turned out to be a whale of a fellow and was neither mollycoddle or concessionist. "Well-rounded" is the expression.

To go a bit deeper still into the argument, it seems to me that there is greater danger today to the average child from too much rubbing of elbows with others than from too little. Modern children, and especially in cities, are seldom let alone long enough to give their nerves a rest. The school group, the camp crowd, the club, the dancing class, culture classes and improvement movements claim him. There are more parties for children, more outings, more everything. They have the movie and the radio, too, which, although merely absorbed by an audience and not offering contact, still reflect the actions and voices of people.

We thus fill the child's world for him today, so who can say that the recluse is really alone? By his very books, written especially for him, he gains a rather rich, though vicarious, experience.

Actually there must be many cases when more harm than good is done by forcing the meditative child into unchosen company, any company, just because it is said to be good for him. We would resent it ourselves if someone strong-armed us day by day into groups that don't appeal to us and never will. And we cherish our hours alone, unless we are so restless and without resource that we can't keep ourselves company. We do not feel ignominious by frequently retiring to sanctuary, so why do we ear-mark children who crave the same rights? There is nothing add about the child who likes peace.

Camera's Eye Winks at Society Playgirls

Getting into the spirit of fun is the essence of the modern society girl's creed for enjoying life. Gloria Baker (right), gorgeous Vanderbilt heiress and daughter of Mrs. Margaret Emerson, clutches toy balloons just as though she were an archer at her first circus. And when the city-bred beauty plays with the idea of the rural life, farm fashions like the costume of Mrs. H. S. Shonard (left) result, worn, of course, for making hey-hey while the mazdas shine.

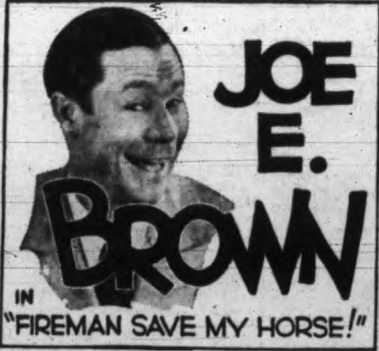

The lucky ladies of leisure and wealth manage to have a circus when they go out for a good time. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney (left) lets formality go by the boards as she makes friends with Trixie, the elephant star of a society-fair held near Marshfield, N.E., without being introduced. And Vivian Dixon (right) poses as a model society beauty, disporting herself in a play suit for the delight of her exclusive audience of "400-ers."

Ottawa Shot Ties For Lead In St. George's Match At Bisley

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

APPOINTMENT of Archie McKinnon, well-known Victoria coach and physical instructor, as leader of Canada's band of track and field athletes for the forthcoming Olympic Games at Berlin, realizes a life-long ambition of the stocky little mentor. McKinnon's selection was hailed with much enthusiasm by his many friends in this city, who realize that Archie's hours and hours of toil with athletes in every line of sport have finally borne fruit.

In Pacific Northwest circles McKinnon has long been recognized as a good coach. Possessing a wonderful disposition and the knack of being able to bring out the greatest in an athlete, Archie has turned out some mighty fine representatives in track and field, swimming and diving. But it was not until this year that the Victoria coach really came into his own nationally. When his British Columbia speedsters cleaned up in a big way in the Canadian track and field trials at Montreal last Friday and Saturday McKinnon was thrown into the spotlight. The pay-off came when the Canadian Olympic committee announced that Archie could go to Berlin as track and field coach if the funds were raised privately to pay his way. McKinnon's friends in this city rose to the occasion and within a few hours the necessary money was wired to him. That is how well Archie is thought of in this city. He's a grand fellow and we wish him luck with his Canadian troupe in the sports extravaganza next month.

In 1928 Canada sent a young strippling to Amsterdam to dive in the Olympic Games. In 1930 the kid, advancing largely from the experience in the quadrennial meet, took the British Empire springboard and tower championships for the land of the Maple Leaf. That was Alf Phillips. Two years later, after competition both in this country and the United States, Alf placed fourth in the Olympic in Los Angeles in the springboard event. His showing in that contest rated him the best amateur in the world outside the United States.

At the forthcoming games, young George Athans, Vancouver's mite of a lad, has the chance to carry his fourteen-year-old presence to the Berlin meet. The boy has stuff. He needs quite a bit of brushing up. But if he makes the trip and picks up the new wrinkles in the manner Phillips did, he should be a great diver in a few years.

Handicapped through the lack of a decent board in Vancouver, young George dived here during last Christmas holidays and proved himself the material from which divers are made. Given the opportunity of the Olympics, his future in that sport should be virtually up to himself.

D. S. Fraser Has Brilliant 69 In Important Event

One Short of Possible to Share First Stage Honors With Two Others

SERG. J. KIER HAS SCORE OF 62

Bisley Camp, Surrey, July 14.—Guardman D. S. Fraser, Ottawa, making his first appearance at Bisley, today scored a 69—one short of possible—in the first stage of the St. George's Challenge Vase competition, and tied with two other marksmen for the bronze cross.

This award goes to the competitor making the highest score in the first stage of the event. Guardsman Fraser had a perfect score of 35 at the 300-yard distance and followed with a 34 at 600 yards.

Tied with him at 69 were Capt. A. G. Rumble of the Suffolks and Sergt.-Instructor E. Coulton of Hythe.

The 100 high scores of the 800 who fired in the first stage of the St. George's will go into the final stage Saturday. Scores in the first stage do not count, however, in the final standing. They only serve to determine the 100 qualifiers.

An uncertain light and a tricky wind faced the marksmen firing in the St. George's, a service rifle contest, regarded as second only in importance to the King's Prize in the National Rifle Association's meeting.

Sergt. J. W. A. Sharpe, Montreal, who scored 68, qualified outright along with Guardsman Fraser for the second stage. Major T. Spittal, Montreal, and a number of others who scored 65 will shoot it out for twenty-nine places in the list of 100 qualifiers.

Hawthorne Track Manager Is Dead

Louisville, Ky., July 14.—C. W. Ray, fifty-six, general manager of the Hawthorne race track, Chicago, died at a hospital here yesterday evening. Death was attributed to the severe heat.

Ray was owner of the Scotland Farms at Frankfort, Ky., and well known in racing circles with which he had been connected for twenty years.

Muzz Patrick Seconds Carey

Montreal, July 14.—He couldn't defend his title, so Murray Patrick, Victoria, amateur heavyweight boxing champion of Canada, came to the Olympic boxing trials and seconded a protegee. Forced to scratch his entry in the trials by a nose injury which necessitated an operation, Patrick was in the corner of Rex Carey when the Victoria middleweight met Walter Franklin, Windsor, in a three-round preliminary. To the accompaniment of much booing, the referee held up Franklin's hand in token of victory. Most fans thought the Victoria boy had earned the decision with a left hand that made Franklin back-pedal most of the way.

CRICKETERS MEET KING

Touring Canadian Players Are Received Today at Buckingham Palace

London, July 14.—Members of the Canadian cricket team touring Great Britain were received today by King Edward VIII in the gardens of Buckingham Palace. They wore their blue striped blazers for the occasion. His Majesty shook hands with the cricketers and chatted with them for several minutes.

The Royal Society tendered the visiting cricketers a luncheon, with the Earl of Bessborough, former Governor-General of Canada, presiding.

Lord Bessborough suggested that Sir Piroshan Noon, Indian High Commissioner in London, who was among the guests, probably had come to see if the Canadians were as good as the Indian cricketers.

"That question," he added, "doubtless will be answered in the course of a few years, as we do not believe that this is merely a solitary visit by our Canadian cricketers."

SIDNEY NINE IN VICTORY

Win From Tigers 6 to 4 in B Section Play-off Match; Togos Triumph

Sidney softballers yesterday evening won the right to meet Painter's Bruins, league leaders, for the championship of the B section softball race, when they emerged victorious over the Tigers at the Athletic Park, 6 to 4, in a play-off fixture.

With the score deadlocked 1 to 1 in the third inning, the fuelmen hammered in four runs in the fourth to take a three-run lead, which brought them victory.

Johnny Hess's circus catch was the feature of the fixture. He slipped while attempting to spear Mout's line drive in the second frame and while still on the ground he reached up and made a sparkling catch.

Ray Byers, operating on the mound for Sidney, pitched good ball and received fair support from his teammates. He was nipped for nine bingles. Sir Carr, allowed eight safeties, majority of which were secured in the fourth inning.

Score by innings:
Sidney 0 1 0 4 0 0 1 0-6
Tigers 1 0 0 1 2 0 0 0-4

Batteries: Byers and G. Lannon; Carr and Harris.

Togo Cleaners downed the Saanichton nine 6 to 0, at Stevenson's Memorial Hall, when they met in the first round of the Calvert Cup series.

The victors played good ball behind the smart-pitching of Fred Westgate.

Score by innings:
Togo Cleaners 1 3 0 0 0 0 0 2-6
Saanichton 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0

Batteries: Westgate and Fardy; Mitchell and Slusgett.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

SAILORS WERE ORIGINALLY CALLED TARPULINS... THEN SHORTENED TO TARS...

TARPAULIN CREWS

Contrary to the popular belief that sailors are referred to as "tars" because of their use of tar in sealing the seams of ships, the term actually is merely a shortened form of the word "tarpaulin." Strange as it seems, "tarpaulin" was once applied to mean both the waterproof hats worn by seamen and the men who wore them!

The immortal Charles Dickens and many other English writers of his time used the word with these meanings.

The term evidently originated from the wide-spread usage of seafaring men of tarpaulin which, in turn, derived its name from its composition.

Record Size U.S. Games Team Sails

Around 375 Athletes Will Leave From New York Tomorrow For Berlin to Represent Country in Olympiad Next Month

New York, July 14.—The United States Olympic budget was virtually balanced today, and the largest team the country ever sent to the games was ready to sail tomorrow for Hamburg.

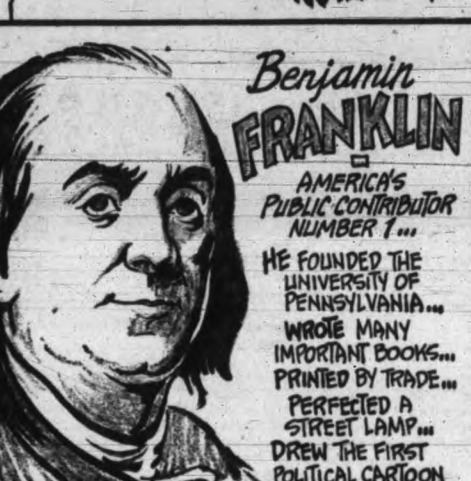

Around 375 athletes, their trials finished, had their bags packed and their dollars, transferred into German marks.

The passage of all these athletes may not be paid when the liner Manhattan sails, but it will be by the time the ship touches shore again.

The cash on hand today was $21,447.57 short of the amount needed to pay the expenses of the American group, but receipts from the final track and field trials at Randall's Island last week-end have not been counted. They are estimated at $25,000.

Gustavus T. Kirby, treasurer of the American Olympic committee, gave the members of three of the team's restless night. He found that the field hockey team still needed $3,223; the women's swimming team $3,500; and the women's track team $3,228.

He instructed the officials of these

VERSATILE FRANKLIN

Amazing is the number and variety of fields in which Benjamin Franklin took part and at which he excelled. Remembered largely for the great diplomacy he displayed in winning over the French government to the cause of American independence, his work as a statesman in helping to organize the American government, and his experiments in electricity, his vigorous, agile mind found time to participate actively in an almost incredible number of other activities. For music he invented the

Bud Hocking Defeats Don Campbell in Victoria Club Final

Ross "Bud" Hocking retained his men's singles championship of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club yesterday when he came out on top after a five-set struggle with Don Campbell, 2-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Campbell turned in a steady game to take the first two sets, but Hocking came up from behind and outdrove his opponent to win the third, fourth and fifth.

An upset was seen in the women's singles final, when Mildred Phillips, defending titleholder, after a string of victories which brought her to the final, went down to defeat at the hands of Mrs. Ross Hocking, 6-1, 6-4.

In the women's doubles final competition was keen and the first set went to twenty-two games. Mrs. Lay and Mrs. Edwards emerged victorious with scores of 12-10 and 7-5.

The semi-final of the mixed handicap doubles saw Miss Lawson and Walton at scratch defeat Miss M. Phillips and Brand, minus 40, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Ross Hocking and Mrs. Hocking, with Don Campbell left for the annual Victoria tennis tournament, which closed hard courts tournament. They will join Hugo Raymond, well-known official who left Friday. The tournament is being held on the courts of the B.C.E.R. tennis club in Vancouver.

NORTH SHORE TIES FOR TOP

Indians Defeat Richmond 13 to 6 to Tighten Box Lacrosse Race

Vancouver, July 14.—North Shore Indians yesterday evening rode roughshod over Richmond for a 13 to 6 victory to go into a tie with the Farmers for the lead of the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League. A crowd estimated at between 6,500 and 7,000—standing four deep in the aisles—witnessed the game.

The Farmers, long holders of the top spot in the league standings, were no match for the Redskins and were overpowered in every period.

North Shore did most of their scoring in the first half of the game and at half time rode the crest of a 9 to 3 count. Four more goals rattled into the Richmond net in the last two periods while the Farmers could get no more than three back.

Victoria Bowler Leads Rink to Three Wins in Vancouver Tourney

Vancouver, July 14.—With clubs from as far east as Winnipeg and as far south as California competing, the annual tournament of the British Columbia Lawn Bowling Association got under way on two greens yesterday.

A total of sixty-eight rinks are competing in the Bowser Trophy event. Play is being run on the pennant system, whereby the rinks are divided into sections, with each rink playing each other in their own section and the sectional winners playing off in the knockout system for the trophy.

Three games were played yesterday. The knockout is scheduled for Thursday.

At the end of play in the Bowser event yesterday, outside rinks were leading or were tied for first place in seven out of the eleven sections in the competition.

A. Marconini, Victoria, was tied with G. J. Watt, Vancouver, with six points at the top of section three; J. Barton, Nanaimo, and C. Mott, New Westminster, with six points each, were tied for first place in section eight.

R. Good, another Nanaimo City contestant, headed section eleven with six points.

All had won three opening games yesterday.

A. R. Alexander, Los Angeles, and H. Y. Jackson, Cumberland, E.C., each had four points; heading section ten, having each lost a game.

Athletes Who Will Represent Dominion At Olympic Games Expected to Make Good Showing Against World's Best; Times Compare Favorably With Those Made in U.S.

By ELMER DULMAGE
Montreal, July 14.—Like all track and field experts in the world, members of the Canadian Olympic team spoke with admiration today of the astonishing standard of performances in the United States trials last week-end. Those Americans, they agreed, can certainly run and jump.

But if the big crowds at the Berlin games do not startle the Canadians, accustomed to running and jumping in comparative privacy, the record-smashing forces of the Americans should run into stray ends of difficulty among the young men Patrick J. Mulqueen will lead overseas this week.

"Certainly the performances recorded in the United States trials are astounding," conceded Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee. "When the question of comparing them with what our men did here last Friday and Saturday arises, however, don't forget two things:

BETTER COMPETITION
"It rained both afternoons in Montreal and the weather was fine in New York. Our track, softened by two thundershowers, was not at all a track for record-breaking. And in the second place the competition in the U.S. trials was much better."

Mulqueen and others mentioned that Howie McPhee's 21.5 in the 200-metre final was one of the best pre-Olympic sprints recorded anywhere. But compared generally with times made in the U.S. tryouts, Canadian clockings were scarcely impressive. Following is a comparative table of times made by winners:

	Canada	U.S.
100 metres	15.8	15.4
200 metres	21.5	21.0
400 metres	48.7	46.6

One answer is that Jesse Owens, setting a new world record of 21 seconds for the 200-metre dash around one turn, had a host of great sprinters at his heels. He was on a lightning-fast track. Everything favored records in the U.S. trials.

The twenty-year-old McPhee won easily in Molson stadium. He was never in danger of losing after twenty yards. In addition, he ran in a drizzle of rain on a track that was anything but fast. It is a fact that the Vancouver flier hasn't been thoroughly tested in two years.

Owens had to travel at his best to win the 100 metres in 10.4 while McPhee, was not hard-pressed to win in 10.8. Howie equalled the world record of 10.3 in the British Columbia trials. There is no doubt, however, that Canada's Johnny Loring is several shades inferior to Archie Williams, winner of the U.S. 400 metres in 48.6.

Here are comparisons of times in two of the longer runs:

	Canada	U.S.
800 metres	1:53.6	1:51.3
1500 metres	4:15.9	4:04.2

EDWARDS LOOKS GOOD
"Especially in the 800 metres, the comparison actually makes our Phil Edwards look good," remarked Mulqueen. "In the United States, John Woodruff beat off a strong field in 1:51. Edwards, an extraordinary runner, ran to win only. He wasn't after record time on that track."

Even the optimistic head of the Canadian team didn't try to minimize the portent of these differences.

	Canada	U.S.
110 hurdles	15.2	14.3
400 hurdles	54.0	51.4
High jump	6-3 3/8	6-9 3/4

There was no doubt that the powerful United States team is better fortified to carry forward a sweep of victories of Berlin than Canada. The Canadians just hope to pick off something here and there.

JUNIOR GOLF AT OAK BAY COURSE

New York Yanks Having Troubles

While it doesn't show in the standings—especially if you're busy watching that furious battle the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs are staging in the National League—trouble seems to be lurking just around the corner for those bludgeoning New York Yanks.

Since their stride was broken a week ago by the three-day layoff for the all-star game, the Yanks have had trouble regaining the form that put them far out in front in the American League. They wound up yesterday with a short count against the Chicago White Sox when "Silent" John Whitehead held them to five hits for a 4 to 3 triumph.

Counting out their 18 to 0 rout of Cleveland, the Yanks have scored only fourteen runs in five contests and four of them were homers by Lou Gehrig, who apparently won't be stopped by anything. Their opponent tallied thirty-six times in those same games.

Gehrig smacked him twenty-fourth home run of the season yesterday, with Red Rolfe on base to account for two of the Yanks' runs as he pulled ahead of Jimmy Fox to take the major league lead.

OPPOSITE DETROIT
Just to make the prospect look dicker, the Yanks, starting tomorrow, have to take on the Tigers, who are beginning to look like the team that won last year's world series.

Detroit, which has climbed from fifth place to second inside of three weeks, hung up its twelfth victory in fifteen starts by routing the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 2 yesterday.

Cleveland's Indians moved up to tie Boston for fourth place by routing the Red Sox 11 to 3 while Washington tightened its hold on third with a 9 to 3 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

The Cubs defeated the New York Giants 1 to 0 and moved into the lead a few percentage points ahead of St. Louis.

Tiny Jim Chaplin of the Boston Bees celebrated his twenty-ninth birthday by giving Boston a six-hit pitching job and a 4 to 1 victory over Pittsburgh's Pirates, while a heavy hitting barrage in the fifth and sixth innings drove Buckner Walter to cover and enabled the Cincinnati Reds to defeat the Phillies 6 to 4 in other National League games.

COAST LEAGUE

Assured of a chance at the championship by finishing fourth, three second division clubs of the Coast League today had their sights turned to the lowest tier of the first division, with nine weeks of the season remaining.

Mathematically speaking, any of these clubs—the Los Angeles Seals, San Diego Padres and the San Francisco Seals—have an excellent chance to move into the second division.

The Seals, in seventh place, are only three and a half games behind the fourth-place Portland Beavers, while San Diego is two games distant, Los Angeles one and a half.

Last week the Seals perked up to win five out of seven from the

Would Reinstall India Cricketer

New Delhi, India, July 14.—Cricketers here are demanding that Amar Nath, star Indian cricketer, should be reinstated on the touring team in England in time for the second test match July 25 at Manchester.

Amar Nath was sent back to India in mid-June for insubordination by Capt. B. Jones, manager of the tourists.

The player, one of the best all-round men on the side, has promised to apologize and improve his behavior off the field. The view is taken here that he has been penalized enough and it is felt there may be serious repercussions if he is not recalled to England by Capt. Jones.

At Lord's last month England defeated India by nine wickets.

The question of fire hazards on beaches from the large amounts of driftwood was also mentioned, and will be dealt with in a similar manner.

LIFE SENTENCES GIVEN TWO MEN

Associated Press
Pottsville, Pa., July 14.—Six members of the Bruno family, political bosses of the mining settlement of Kelayes until they were convicted of an election vote "massacre," were sentenced to prison yesterday.

Joseph Bruno, head of the family, former county detective and one-time Republican leader, was given three life terms for slaying five Democratic marchers, ambushed the night before the general election of 1934. His brother, Phillip, also was sentenced to life.

Alfred, twenty-six, and James, thirty-one, sons of Joseph, and Tony Orlando, relative by marriage, were sentenced to ten to twenty years each for second degree murder. Arthur Bruno, son of Phillip, was sentenced to five to ten years for second degree murder.

HELTON WINS THREE RACES

Jockey Has Big Day at Brighthouse Park; Orangery Captures Feature

Vancouver, July 14.—Setting the pace for the entire six furlongs, the Greencroft stable's imported, star, Orangery, staved off the stretch challenge of the favorite, Tritonina, to win the feature fifth race at Brighthouse Park yesterday.

Jockey Lasswell guided the Greencroft entry to the top from the start and she galloped into a lead that proved too big for the fast-closing Tritonina to overcome in the stretch. Playing on hung grimly on to take third position.

With a burst of speed in the stretch that left the rest of the field, including the favorites, a good length behind. Bussy Seth came home in the fourth race to pay off at $28 for a straight $2 mutual ticket. Another long shot, Reigh Rose was right behind and took second place to return $15.70 for show and $8.05 for place. Warren S., the favorite, took third money.

Jockey Helton rode three winners and brought another race home for place position yesterday. He rode Adam Somers to victory in the second event, Boyd McGee in the third and Dazetta in the sixth.

FOUR BOATS ARE PROWLED

Provincial police today were investigating theft of a quantity of canned food products from several boats at the Yacht Club over the week-end.

The boats entered were: Richmond II, owned by P. C. Hodges, the Chesapeake, owned by L. A. Genge, and Nymph, owned by Charles Mallandaine. An unsuccessful attempt was also made to enter the Emmeline, Seattle boat owned by Edward Seymour.

In each instance the thieves took only food, leaving behind silverware and ship's equipment.

This is the second time in a year when yachts moored at the club have been victimized, and police believe youths are responsible for the thefts.

The City Council yesterday evening authorized the forwarding of a letter of congratulations to P. C. Richards, former City Hall newspaper, for the Colonel, on his recent appointment as secretary to Hon. John Hart.

"Red" Wells Has Got His Button

Lands Twenty-two-and-half-pound Spring at Brentwood to Win Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Assn. Award After Four Years of Trying

"I got it!" These were the first words of "Red" Wells, member of The Times composing room staff, on arrival at work today. He was referring to the twenty-two and a half pound spring salmon he landed at Brentwood yesterday evening. It won him the bronze button of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association.

"Red" has been trying for four years to hook into a button fish and curing that time has taken plenty of ribbing from his fellow workers. Wells caught his prize near Quarry Bay, using a number seven superior spoon and a planer.

Joe Schleimer, Toronto, champion of the 138-pounders, or Harry Peace, Toronto, runner-up in that division, and Heavyweight George Chica, Regina, would be taken if their expenses were subscribed privately.

BOXING TRIALS
Three Canadian champions moved along the fistic trail of the Olympic boxing trials yesterday evening in pursuit of another year on top and a possible trip to the Berlin games.

Most impressive of the defending champions, Toronto's Irving Fosse led the way into the second round with a thumping three-round decision over Lloyd Ryan, Montreal, in the middleweight division. The featherweight champion, Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, scored by decision over Gamelin Dumas, Montreal, and Maurice Camyree, king of the welterweights from Winnipeg, won a decision from Ross Taylor, Montreal.

DECISIONS BOOED
Prolonged booing by the crowd met the judges' decision in giving the nod to Wally Cave, Montreal, Quebec 135-pound champion, over George Nyberg, Port Arthur. The Montrealer gained points in the first two rounds when Nyberg was thrice warned for fouling.

Eddie Westwood, Ottawa, dropped Bill Martin, Red Deer, Alta., three times, once in each round, to take an easy decision in the welterweight division. The westerner got up each time without taking a count, but could not do anything against Westwood's superior boxing skill.

Eddie Berriault, Montreal, fired the first victory in the middleweight division, taking a close decision from Stanley Dilatash, Waterton, Alta.

Walter Franklin's middleweight victory through a decision over Berriault, Victoria, aroused the crowd. Franklin, from Windsor, Ont., succeeded in drawing blood from Carey's head, but the Victoria boy appeared more effective in his punching and chased his opponent around the ring, landing a succession of heavy punches.

In the last bout of a three-night wrestling programme that crowned seven Canadian champions, George Chica, Regina heavyweight, smashed Bill Scott, London, Ont., helpless and pinned him twice in slightly more than five minutes. It was the only two-fall victory of the finals, four of which were completed Saturday night.

It took Chica only one minute and 25 seconds before he had a second fall. Not far behind as a thriller, the bout between Terry-Evans, Toronto, and Joe Effa, Victoria, brought some of the best wrestling of the trials. Effa lacked only experience, and with out this he could not hold the British Empire Games champion of 1934.

For the first five minutes, however, it seemed that Effa's strength alone might bring him the title. Evans finally forged in front when he dropped the westerner and obtained a "ride."

Effa could not come up after that and was still underneath at the finish. The judges' decision to Evans was unanimous.

Carey and Effa Are Both Beaten

Victoria Boxer and Wrestler Lose in Canadian Olympic Trials; Fans Boo Decision Against Carey; Three Mat Stars Will Be Sent to Games

Montreal, July 14.—A team of three wrestlers, representative of Toronto, Regina and Montreal, were named today to represent Canada at the Berlin Olympics.

Two others will be taken, the Olympic committee announced, if they can raise their own expenses.

Selected as definite members of the squad, chosen after three nights' trials that decided seven Canadian championships, were Terry-Evans, Toronto, at 174 pounds; Howie Thomas, Montreal, at 145 pounds; and Vern Pettigrew, Regina, at 134 pounds.

The committee announced either Joe Schleimer, Toronto, champion of the 138-pounders, or Harry Peace, Toronto, runner-up in that division, and Heavyweight George Chica, Regina, would be taken if their expenses were subscribed privately.

ARTHUR HOWE

Arthur Howe, one of the early pioneers of Chemainus and the Cowichan district, passed away on Sunday in the Chemainus General Hospital. The late Mr. Howe was a native of Norfolk, Eng., and came out to Chemainus in 1892 to join his uncle, the late Matthew Howe, who in 1885 was sent from England with machinery for the first Croft mill, fore-runner of the present Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Company Limited. The deceased is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Alex Dunne of Vancouver, and Mrs. S. W. Kilvert of Iloco, and three sons, Arthur of Cowichan Lake, Ernest at home, and Harold of Great Central Lake, also three grandsons. His mother is still alive, residing at Great Ryburgh, Norfolk, Eng. Two brothers, Samuel and Barney, also survive.

ROBERT MATHESON

Private funeral services for Robert Matheson, who passed away at the family residence, 2324 Quadra Street, this morning, will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Mr. Matheson has been a resident of this city for fifty-nine years. He was eighty years of age and was born in Ottawa, Ont. He is survived by his widow, four daughters, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The remains will be forwarded to Seattle for cremation. It is requested no flowers be sent.

ANNA MARY DAVISON

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Mary Davison of 570 Bay Street, who passed away on Saturday, will take place on Wednesday afternoon in Sands Mortuary Chapel at 2 o'clock, with Canon F. A. F. Chadwick conducting the service. The remains will be laid at rest in Ross Bay Cemetery. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

Regal Lily Has Thirteen Blooms

A beautiful Regal lily with thirteen blooms massed at the end of its stalk was picked today in the garden of L. A. Haines, 3276 Dublin Road, Saanich, who is critically ill.

Before he passed into a coma this morning, Mr. Haines, who is a veteran gardener of seventy-five, asked his sister-in-law, Mrs. E. Haines of Lethbridge, Alberta, who has been looking after him for the last six months, to take the lily to the newscorrespondent, as he had noticed a lily with nine flowers mentioned in the paper.

The lily, which has thirteen large and well-defined flowers on it, is believed to be a record of its kind.

Application of Hans Brunsberg for a second-hand store license at 528 Johnson Street was approved by the City Council yesterday evening.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Sponsored by the Civil Service Sports Club, the annual picnic for members of the provincial civil service will be held at Deep Cove on Saturday.

BISHOP WILL TAKE OFFICE

Enthronement at Cathedral Tomorrow Evening Will Follow Traditional Lines

Rev. Harold Eustace Bishop will be enthroned as Bishop of Columbia at a special service in Christ Church Cathedral tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Clergy and laity from all parts of the diocese will take part in the service.

The order of service is traditional, and will be similar to that followed at the enthronement here of the late Bishop Schiefel.

The service will open with a procession and hymn, after which the bishop, accompanied by the chaplains, the chancellor and registrar of the diocese, will go to the west door of the cathedral and knock three times and require admission to the cathedral church of the diocese.

During this part of the service the new bells will be rung in token of his approach.

After the bishop requests admission, Dean Quinlan will reply on behalf of the congregation, offering welcome and promising loyal support.

The entire procession will then proceed to the chancel, the choir and congregation singing Psalm exult. The bishop will then petition for his enthronement, and after the dean's assent is received the chancellor will read the deed of the bishop's consecration.

The dean will then lead the bishop to the throne, followed by the officials, while the choir sings a psalm.

The new bishop will be presented to the people and congregation after the service, and will give an address and blessing.

Magicians Scoff At Magic and Swamis

All a Matter of Manipulation, Misdirection and Mechanisms, Says Caryl Fleming; Only Seven Standard Hindu Tricks

"Magic? There's no such thing. The five magicians eating a late breakfast at the Strathcona Hotel today laughed.

"It's all a matter of manipulation, misdirection and mechanisms," said Caryl S. Fleming, Beverly Hills, California, president of the Pacific Coast Association of Magicians, who is here on a holiday following the recent magicians' conference in Seattle. The other magicians talking shop around the breakfast table when a reporter from The Times joined them were Jack Boshard, Hollywood, and Bill Harkness, Frank Merrifield and Ernie Crookford.

"How about the Hindus that can be buried alive," the reporter asked. "Easy," declared Mr. Fleming. "They usually have a sliding partition in the coffin. Then when they are buried, and by the way, the grave is usually dug by them close to a tree, they crawl out of the coffin through a tunnel they have constructed to a hole under the tree. After that it is nothing more than sitting in a cellar. They can stay there all week."

UNDER WATER TRICK
 "We had a Hindu come to Hollywood who said he was the only man who could stay under water in a coffin for forty hours," Mr. Boshard said. "Well, Houdini said he would do it, only he wanted to be in the same coffin as the Hindu. The Indian refused."

There were seven standard Hindu tricks, according to Mr. Fleming, who is first honorary member of the Society of Indian Magicians, Bombay, India.

The first was the cup and ball trick, which was known to magicians all over the world. The Hindus made the balls pass through the cups and finally produced baby chicks or something else under the cups—all a matter of manipulation.

The second was the mango tree which grew with a lot of mangoes and waving of cloth from a seed in a few minutes. At times this was extremely crudely performed and was just a matter of the magician producing different sized twigs from his equipment.

The third was the boat in a pan of water which had a coconut shell on its mast. Water flowed from the coconut shell down the mast and sank the ship. Then by waving his wand the magician could make the ship float again. This was purely mechanical.

The fourth and last of the Hindu tricks, the others being "crude" pieces of magic with ropes and cobras, was the boy in the basket. The boy got into the basket and then the magician jabbed swords and spears through it. Of course the basket was built in such a way that the boy could crawl up in one corner.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION
 Suspended animation, which was said to account for a number of buried alive tricks, Mr. Fleming believed was possible, but he pointed out that there must always be oxygen.

"I frankly doubt very much whether these magicians could do it," he said. "It was hard to get an audience with minds of the same 'groove.' One person suffering from an itch might spoil the whole effect."

The only case of actual psychic magic he had heard of was in Tibet. There, it was said, a man was consuming a bridge but when he went closer the flame disappeared and there were no ashes or charred marks on the bridge.

Radio had spoiled the talking kettles and Buddha tricks, which employed means to mislead these intimate subjects, talk, but Mr. Fleming did not believe that the advance of science would in any way spoil the magicians' livelihood.

Premier Pattullo, flying from here to Dawson and back, was headed south today according to word reaching the Legislative Buildings. He spent the week-end in side hope in the Yukon and then headed south yesterday.

He flew first to White Horse, then Atlin, Telegraph Creek and finally to Ketchikan, Alaska. Today he was to stop at Stewart and spend the night at Prince Rupert.

The premier is expected back in Victoria this week-end. He is accompanied by his secretary, Ben Hetherly, and piloted by E. W. C. Dobbin in a new Waco seaplane.

SHINGLE MILL FOR BANFIELD
 Project at Cable Station Settlement Is Reported Under Negotiation

Banfield, July 14.—Erection of a shingle mill on Banfield Creek, the first lumbering operation within the immediate vicinity of this cable station town, is reported in prospect.

A representative of Vancouver interests has just concluded a survey of the site, it is understood, and tracts of land have been purchased from which shingle bolts and pulpwood may be obtained.

Although centred in Banfield the operation could extend for a radius of four or five miles by means of a specially adapted power plant which would convey the timber from the outlying districts to the mill, it is reported.

Negotiations on the matter are still pending.

Who's Who At Hotels

"I think the situation in China is not so serious as it seems in the papers," said R. H. van Dorser, administrator of the Societe Neerlandaise de Travaux Maritimes, Dutch dock-building and dredging company which operates in China, in an interview at the Empress Hotel this morning.

"Economically China is progressing. Our business depends very much on the political situation, and we are watching the action of North China very closely," said Mr. van Dorser, speaking partly in English and partly in French.

That was all he would say about the Chinese situation.

Mr. van Dorser plans to spend a few days in Victoria before going on across the continent.

"I am going out to look at Victoria now. It all depends whether it is good or not. If I like it, I remain," he said.

"The lumber business has picked up wonderfully in the States," said P. M. Beach, lumber man from Eucalyre, Wisconsin, at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Speaking of the complaints voiced by lumber men in the State of Washington in connection with the United States-Canada reciprocal trade agreements of the beginning of the year, Mr. Beach said: "They always make a fuss. Yes, the fact affected us a bit, but not very much."

Mr. Beach is accompanied by Mrs. Beach and their daughters, Katherine and May. They plan to remain in Victoria until Thursday, going home through the Canadian Rockies.

Apparently the big Shrine convention is a very mixed blessing for Seattle. There were continuous inquiries at the desk of the Empress Hotel this morning as to the possibility of securing accommodation in the Puget Sound city, and many complaints from travelers who thought there was little chance of their finding a room there. Many were changing their plans so as to pass through Seattle on the day-time train to cut it out of their itinerary altogether.

Visitors from one island known as a pleasure resort, to another with the same reputation, are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Palmer, who registered at the Empress Hotel this morning from Jersey, Channel Islands. They are making an extensive world tour.

With plans for spending a week on Vancouver Island and in Victoria, Miss Catherine Schroder of New York City arrived at the Empress Hotel this morning from Honolulu.

Jimmy McLarnin, former welterweight champion of the world, was back in Victoria today with Mrs. McLarnin. They checked in at the Empress Hotel from Vancouver at an early hour and were out driving around the city during the morning.

Members of the cast and production crew of the Central Films picture, "Vengeance of the Forest," were rubbing the sleep from their eyes at 4 o'clock this morning. They were called from their beds at the Dominion Hotel at that hour in preparation for a long day's work at Hillcrest and possibly at Cowichan Lake if the weather permits.

Mrs. William Gargan, wife of the leading man, was seriously worried as she drove up to the Dominion Hotel from the Empress this morning.

"Bill has just received a wire from Hollywood that says he must be back there to start a picture on the eighteenth. They were going to take a plane up to Cowichan Lake and fly him straight to Seattle from there, but it is impossible to get a plane just now. And I hear you cannot get a hotel room in Seattle. They'll just have to make up a bed for me at the airport, that's all. I'm not going to sleep on a park bench for anyone," she said.

With a fair number of travelers landing here off the R.M.S. Empress of Japan, and with the flow of tourists from the south and from other parts of the United States keeping up steadily, Victoria's hotels are in the lobby of the Empress Hotel this morning that at any time since the July 4 holiday week-end.

Peter Jones of Wabash, Indiana, is more convinced than ever that Victoria is a good place to come for fishing holiday. On Sunday he made news by landing two button fish, a silver and a bronze, in one afternoon.

Yesterday Mr. Jones was out at Brentwood again and landed nine more fish, chiefly twelve and four-teen-pounders. "Those fish can certainly hold their own," he said this morning. "My arm is so sore I could not think of going out again today."

Mr. Jones will leave Victoria this afternoon for Seattle on his way home.

"But I am certainly coming back here next year," he said.

Californians who registered at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon and this morning included Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Shuffett, Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harrell, Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. King and Miss Dale King, San Mateo; Mr. and Mrs. George J. Pale, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cowling, San Mateo; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mayer, Glendale; J. Mills and family, Los Angeles; J. P. Brady, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Tozer, La Mesa; Miss J. M. Fraser and Mrs. F. H. Stewart, Los Angeles; Miss H. Mellis, La Jolla; Mrs. C. A. Baxter, Pasadena; Miss L. Colter, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hirst, Piedmont; Mr. and Mrs. H. Nicholas, Santa Monica; Miss H. M. Wells, San Francisco; Mrs. L. C. Brown, San Francisco; Mrs. M. Leach, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. M. Rosenbaum, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Beverly Hills; Miss Kate Lee and Miss Apple L. Levy, San Francisco; Mrs. S. M. Armstrong, and daughter, Hayward, and Mrs. B.

Mr. Clark proposed that the club assist financially in Archie McKinnon's trip to Berlin with the Canadian Olympic track team, as an immediate objective.

The thought that members got just as much out of Kwanian as they put in, and possibly even more, was put forward by J. B. Clearhune. "We are better off than we have done in the club, and for what others have done in the club for us," he said.

Elwood Watkins spoke briefly, thanking the other past presidents for their contributions.

William Lusey presided at the luncheon.

The Esquimalt public works committee will view Aberdeen Street in company with the municipal engineer, the council decided last night following receipt of a complaint from J. W. Archer as to the condition of the surface of the street. A complaint was also received from W. E. Perry as to glass, bottles and lumber littering the beach at the foot of Kinver Street.

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED
 "Kwanian has accomplished a good deal, not of a very spectacular nature, but of a real service," said Dr. J. Willis. "We as past presidents are anxious about the future of the club."

The hope that the ideals of the club might not lie dormant was expressed by S. J. D. Clark, who said, "I hope that our service to others shall be something more than lip-service."

EX-PRESIDENTS ADDRESS CLUB

Eight Former Heads of Kwanian Here Address Members at Luncheon

Eight past-presidents of the Victoria Kwanian Club joined at the club's luncheon at the Empress Hotel today in outlining the history, the aims, the ideals and the potentialities of their organization.

The story of the founding of the Victoria Kwanian Club in 1919, the granting of its charter in February, 1920, and its development since that date, was told by Kenneth Ferguson, who was the club's third president.

It was after the district convention held in Victoria in 1921 that Kwanian found its feet in the Pacific Northwest district, according to Mr. Ferguson.

He reviewed some of the major community work of the club in this city, mentioning the stimulation of interest in the building up of the new wing of the Royal Jubilee Hospital and a variety of similar projects.

"Kwanian is essentially idealistic. It is a philosophy of giving, not getting," Harold Diggon told the club. To follow the letter of the Kwanian constitution while ignoring its basic spirit was not what was expected of a Kwanian.

Mr. Diggon foresaw great possibilities for Kwanian in the future in the creation of a better and more equitable order in the world.

How Kwanian could develop a man's community spirit in fields even outside the actual work of the club was the theme of G. H. Stevens. The spirit of service in each member was developed in the club's atmosphere of close personal friendship. Kwanian was a field for the development of more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

The formation of enduring friendships by practical means, altruistic service in building better communities, and co-operation in creating and maintaining a sound public opinion and high ideals, were listed by Rowan MacKenzie as the main objects of Kwanian.

"I think if every Kwanian would take a little time occasionally and give thought to what this club might do within its limits in the future, we can continue and go forward to better work," he said.

"Kwanian has accomplished a good deal, not of a very spectacular nature, but of a real service," said Dr. J. Willis. "We as past presidents are anxious about the future of the club."

The hope that the ideals of the club might not lie dormant was expressed by S. J. D. Clark, who said, "I hope that our service to others shall be something more than lip-service."

A cash profit of $300 was netted by the city in a property exchange recommended by the lands and zoning committee and approved by the City Council yesterday evening.

The council exchanged two city lots on David Street for a lot on Stanley Avenue, owned by the Moore-Whitington Lumber Company, and $200 cash. The company also paid the costs of the transfer. On recommendation of the committee the council also authorized sale of a lot on Hillside Avenue to F. A. Oak, for $350.

City Finances Will Get Consideration

"We Must Find Funds From Somewhere Or We Cannot Finance Next Year," Mayor Leeming Tells Council; Plans to Raise Revenue Heard

The general financial status of the city was under review yesterday evening for a short while by the City Council when alderman debated suggestions introduced, by Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins for ways and means of bettering the situation.

As a result of the discussion, suggestions to secure lower interest rates on borrowings from the government and have the B.C. Electric consider extensive improvements in its service here were referred to the finance committee and the special committee on the B.C. Electric agreement, respectively.

Alderman Hawkins read a lengthy prepared statement in which he advanced three suggestions as courses which the city might follow to improve its status.

First, he suggested the council hold a meeting with large taxpayers of the city and that plans be laid to approach the provincial government at the next session for restoration of the former liquor, pari-mutuel, motor licence and school grants, and also ask that the burden of social services be lifted.

Second, he said, would result in $123,000 being restored to civic revenues in the first instance, and the dropping of $177,000 expenditures in the second.

He also advocated steps being taken to get interest rates reduced from 4.75 to 4 per cent on city bonds as present interest rates could not be continued, and that the B.C. Electric be approached to consider the extensive expenditure to improve its service and assist in relieving unemployment.

PREPARING SURVEY

In reply, Mayor Leeming said the city comptroller was now preparing an exhaustive report in which the city's finances from 1921 to the present day would be covered. When this was done he planned to lay the entire financial position before a meeting of large taxpayers.

The city today was refunding a quarter of a million dollars and had been doing so for the last few years. "We cannot do it any longer. We must find funds from somewhere or we cannot finance next year," he said.

In regard to the B.C. Electric proposal he said copies of the company's agreement with the city were now being printed and would be handed to each alderman for perusal before long. These, he said, would be considered at a meeting of the special committee appointed to deal with the agreement, under the chairmanship of Alderman Archie Willis.

Alderman P. R. Brown said he had regretted to see publication of Alderman Hawkins' suggestions in the press since he thought the civic situation was one which should be handled slowly and carefully and not in a manner to alarm the investing public.

If the alderman had come to him he would have been made aware of suggestions which the finance committee was considering. Alderman Brown said he was definitely against any form of refunding or repudiation and while Hon. Wells Gray had openly suggested in the Legislature that refunding should be carried out in Victoria, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, had said it was definitely not a policy of the present government. "We will get far more sympathy from the bondholders if we do not talk repudiation or default," he said.

The Mayor concurred with Alderman Brown, saying Mr. Gray's statement in the Legislature had had a disastrous effect on Victoria bonds. INQUIRIES BEING MADE

In regard to Alderman Hawkins' proposals for the B.C. Electric, Alderman Willis, chairman of the special

Collections In Esquimalt Up

Higher Percentage of Current Tax Collections to June 30 Is Shown

An encouraging statement of tax collections to June 30, with a percentage higher than at the same date last year, was submitted to the Esquimalt Council last night by Councillor Thomas Hadfield, chairman of the finance committee.

In one section, that of sewer rates and rentals, the amount collected was already above the estimate for the year, with a collection of $5,724.01 against an estimate of $5,254.99, for the year. This equals a 9.22 per cent collection. Last year the actual percentage collected to June 30 was 65.25.

In the general and debt rate bracket the municipality still has $2,283.85 to collect to bring the receipts up to the estimated figure of $59,443.11 for the whole year, representing a 72.11 per cent collection. The collection to June 30 last year was 69.37 per cent.

The total for current taxes shows $62,884.07 collected out of an estimated $64,698.10 for the year. The total levy is $87,732.36.

The arrears and delinquent section of the tax statement shows $7,544.04 collected on an estimate of $15,828.00, leaving a balance of $8,283.96 to bring the receipts up to the estimates. Arrears and delinquent taxes outstanding at December 31, 1935, totaled $31,677.19.

In the auditor's statement of receipts and disbursements, also presented at the same meeting, actual receipts to June 30 are shown as $132,647.19, against an estimate for the year of $118,433.84. However, the receipts to date include a bank loan of $35,000.

Disbursements of the municipality to June 30 totaled $100,376.33, with the estimate for the year set at $120,780.09. This leaves Esquimalt $20,403.76 cash on hand and at the bank.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1936
According to astrology this is not an important day in planetary direction, although benefic aspects are active. Advising and publicity are under favorable direction.

In this way there should be a sense of mild satisfaction and general good feeling in political matters. Borrowing is fairly likely to sign legal papers while this configuration prevails, but notes at banks will be unfortunate. Borrowing is subject to serious drawbacks.

Women should stay in the background under this planetary government, which encourages men to keep their own counsel in political matters. Reactionary ideas will guide public affairs and women next year will revolt against extreme tactics.

There is a sign warning of many drownings this month. Accidents, falls and dangers at the beaches are forecast. Use of cosmetics is to diminish greatly this summer, astrologers forecast. Young girls will rescue artificial modes and manners and seek natural beauty.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of great good luck. Women may receive benefits from elderly persons. Men will profit through odd business developments.

Children born on this day probably will be optimistic in spirit and active in body. Subjects of this sign may be artistic and exceedingly successful.

George Washington, Neely painter, was born on this day, 1818. Others who were related to him are: William C. Whitney, statesman, 1861, and Henry Edward Manning, Roman Catholic cardinal, 1808.

committee, said he had been making inquiries and had considered a suggestion made to him for the installation here of trackless trolleys which operate on storage batteries after leaving the trolley wires. The alderman said he had written for complete data on this equipment.

He also said that the committee would meet as soon as all the agreements pertaining to the franchise were printed.

MULES TAKEN INTO DESERT

Scotty About to Head Back Into Death Valley With Pack Animals

Los Angeles, July 14.—Death Valley

Scott is heading back for the desert with the finest string of mules he ever had.

He has finished a five-weeks shopping trip, to all parts of California. "The fifteen mules cost him, together with the feed and packs, about $4,200," said the desert rat philosopher and man of mysterious gold.

"I bet there ain't another mule in the world like my new pal Barnum. All my life I hunted for one like him. He's a big bay, 1,250 pounds, 15.5 hands. He'll make a great saddle mule for me."

"Some folks spend as much for an automobile, but I bet they never get transportation as good as this string. It ought to last me the rest of my life."

"I'm completing the round-up and sending them back by truck."

FEED SENT IN

"I've sent fifty tons of hay in. The trucking cost about $35 a ton. And I sent in about fifty-five tons of grain."

"I'll take about three weeks to whip the mules into shape, and then I'll be heading up in the rocks. You know I've got $700,000 in gold in the rocks, and a little mill of my own at the castle."

Scotty's castle is in Grapevine Canyon, the northern end of Death Valley. He started building it in 1922 and so far has spent $2,300,000 on it. It is the most luxuriously furnished home in the west, despite the fact it is the most isolated.

READY FOR WORK

The sixty-year-old blue-eyed philosopher of the nation's most desolate region is as "fit as a fiddle."

"When I get the string ready, I'll be out in the rocks for above five weeks," he said.

"What about this 135 in the shade summer heat in Death Valley?" he was asked.

"Gee! It will be good to get back there where you can take your coat and shirt off," he replied.

"And nobody bothers you. I'll be alone with the mules and have a fine time."

COMMUNION IS DENIED WRITER

James Bunting Barred By Bishop of Church of England

Associated Press

Ferring-on-Sea, Eng., July 14.—James Bunting, young film scenario writer, today was "taking opinion of counsel" on his virtual excommunication from the Church of England.

The Bishop of Chichester, Rt. Rev. George Bell, denied communion to Bunting because, he said, the latter had violated the Fifth Commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother."

Bunting's parents died recently in the gas-filled bedroom of their house. The father, Rev. W. H. Boyne Bunting, curate at Camelsdale Parish, left a letter saying his son had the bulk of his fortune.

Subsequently a coroner's jury criticized the younger Bunting for not helping his parents financially.

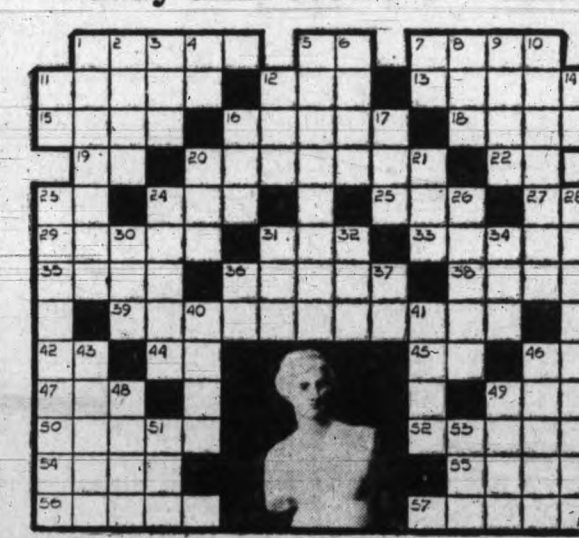

Outlining his plans yesterday, the writer said: "I do not intend to attend church in view of the terms of the bishop's allegations, but I hope to prove him wrong in what he says about me."

He said he had between $3,000 and $4,000 of his parents' money, but declared he had begun to help his parents and said his father's letter absolved him from blame.

An official of the Church Association called the bishop's decree "practically excommunication," adding that "excommunication does not really exist in the church of England at the present time."

Purchase of a new roadster for the waterworks superintendent was referred to the water committee, for report by the City Council yesterday evening.

Dominion Shows "Walking Dead"

Guy Kibbee in "The Big Noise," and Boris Karloff in "The Walking Dead," are now at the Dominion Theatre.

"The Walking Dead" deals with the resurrection of a dead man, who walks again among his fellow men, walking in a half dream, dazed, but possessing an unfailing and seemingly supernatural power to recognize the members of a band of crooks he had not known before as the person who had framed him for murder and caused him to be electrocuted for a crime he did not commit.

The method shown in the picture for reviving the dead man parallels the experiments of Dr. Robert Corneish, the Berkeley, Calif., scientist, who claims to have brought a dead dog to life and those of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute and a Nobel prize winner.

The tipping table used by Dr. Corneish and the electrical apparatus has been duplicated in detail and under the supervision of the picture, the "Lindbergh Heart," a living pulsating thing, invented by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who assisted Dr. Carrel in his experiments.

This is the first time either of these reanimating mechanisms have been shown on the screen.

Splendid Cast In Shakespearian Film

In all the long history of Hollywood, no cast for a single picture has been so carefully selected as that which appears in Warner Brothers' "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opens at the new Oak Bay Theatre tomorrow for a four-day engagement. It required a full month for Max Reinhardt to make his selections. A great amount of schedule juggling resulted immediately, in order to give Reinhardt the cast he wanted.

PLAZA THEATRE

How to be both romantic and funny is ably demonstrated on the screen of the Plaza Theatre this week where Pinky Tomlin, gangling Oklahoma farm boy is making his debut with Virginia Bruce, Robert Taylor, Helen Twelvetrees and other notables in the fast-moving Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy-drama, "Times Square Lady."

A few months ago Pinky was driving a dump truck in rural Oklahoma. Then he wrote "The Object of My Affection" and "What's the Reason I'm Not Pleased-You?" They became great national song hits and Pinky was lifted off the truck into Hollywood. He sings both songs in "Times Square Lady."

CAPITOL THEATRE

Grace Moore sings the love songs of the immortal Kreisler in "The King Steps Out," featuring Franchot Tone, Walter Connolly and Raymond Walburn, and showing today at the Capitol Theatre.

Supporting the principals is a star-bright cast, including Victor Jory, Elizabeth Radd, Nana Bryant, Frieda Inescourt, Thurston Hall, Herman Bing and others. Sidney Buchman wrote the screen play, and Josef von Sternberg directed.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

One of the most admired characters of the cinema, one which he has studied all of his life, has been that of "Old Black Joe," the famed colored minister.

In Mascot's "Harmony Lane," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, he was given an opportunity for the first time in his life to give his interpretation of this loved character. Muse worked for over two weeks trying hundreds of different kinds of make-up before he finally picked the one that he thought exemplified "Old Black Joe" in a satisfactory manner.

ATLAS THEATRE

Ann Harding and Herbert Marshall co-star in a comedy of human love errors, "The Lady Consents," RKO Radio Picture now being shown at the Atlas Theatre.

Ann Harding appears as Herbert Marshall's first wife, while Margaret Lindsay plays the other woman of the triangle. Walter Abel, Edward Ellis, Robert Cavanaugh and Ika Chase complete a cast that boasts five New York star favorites.

American Telephone Leads Upward Swing On New York Board

Associated Press
New York, July 14.—With American Telephone in the lead, and steel and specialties running a close second, the stock market today turned in gains ranging from fractions to three or more points generally.

Despite profit realizing, which tended to restrain many issues, a number of new five-year highs were registered. The close was firm. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Buyers responded not only to a further break in the drought, but top-grade business and industrial news proved inspiring in numerous instances.

The major telephone issue got up about four points at its best, as gossip was heard in the street that the full quarterly dividend of $2.25 was earned in the June period for the first time in several years.

Steel rallied when it was unofficially estimated that U.S. Steel may have shown a net of nearly $1 a common share in the second quarter. Further lessening of steel strike fears was also helpful.

Norfolk and Western hit the 300-mark for an advance of about 22 points at its peak, as rumors of a "split-up" of this issue, together with an increased dividend, were again whispered in the boardrooms.

Bonds were mixed. Gold currencies were firm in terms of the dollar. Rainfall caused selling in grains. Wheat at Chicago lost 1 1/2 cents a bushel, and corn was off 1 1/2 to 2 1/2.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—What should a woman do who is married to a man who is kindly and moral, but a man who just can't make a living and support her or can't even support himself? He isn't especially lazy, just has no initiative, no pep, no faculty of getting along. What is a wife to do with a husband like that when she knows he will never be different? Should she divorce him and marry some man who would give her a decent living? Or should she just stick to her bad bargain? What hope is there for her?

Answer—There isn't any hope for her in her husband and the sooner she recognizes the fact and adjusts her life to meet it, the better for her. It is a bitter thing for a woman to realize that the man to whom she is married is a weakling who cannot do a man's part in the world and provide for his family, but she only wastes time if he is that type of man, in befrooling herself into believing that somehow, someday, he will change into a go-getter.

He never will. He can't, just because it isn't his nature to. Inefficiency is bred into his very bones, and why some people can never do anything just right; why their judgment is always at fault and they always make the wrong decision in every matter; why they are always just too late to get the job they have applied for; why they will work like beavers at something in which there is no profit; and be simply invaluable at a picnic or a church supper and be worthless in a store or office, nobody knows. It is just that they are, and their wives have to accept them on that basis.

Whether a wife should divorce her husband merely because he can't make a living is a problem beyond my ability to solve because there are so many angles to the situation. Certainly no one could contend that she is under any obligation to starve with him. Still more certainly she commits a crime if she brings children into the world to whom she cannot give decent food and shelter and education. But there are men who cannot make money, yet who are so tender and understanding and devoted that they feed their wives' souls on angels' food even if their stomachs lack bread.

What a wife does with this sort of a husband is so manifestly her own affair that no outsider dare interfere. Many a woman loves such a husband well enough to support him and to think herself lucky in having him.

Men, somehow, seem to be better sports about the no-account mate than women are. There are thousands upon thousands of men who are married to trifling women who make husbands get up and get their own breakfasts while they lie abed and snooze of mornings; who are too lazy to keep themselves clean; who never make the effort to cook a decent meal and whose houses are like pigsties, yet who go along putting up with this slackness and without ever dragging them into the divorce courts. Yet every man would like to have a tidy, thrifty wife who was a good cook and a good manager just as much as every woman would like to have a husband who was a good provider.

But the one certain thing in all this welter of doubt about what to do about the no-account husband is for the wife to face the situation squarely and realize that somebody in the family has to work, somebody has to support the household, and if her husband won't do it, she must do it.

No use in deluding herself with optimistic hopes that something will turn up, or John will get into something, or Uncle Tom or Cousin Peter will make a place for John. Nothing of the sort is going to happen. John isn't going to win a sweepstake and he isn't going to work. No earthly power could hold him to a job. So it is up to the wife to fit herself for some occupation by which she can make a living for them both.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—To what extent should a mother expect or demand financial aid from her children? My mother is in splendid health and when my father died he left her a large house, a new car and $15,000 in cash. In a year's time not a cent was left and neither house nor car. She started a business of her own and should be doing very well, but she is always demanding money, sometimes as much as $500 at a time. If I cannot furnish it she has tantrums and says I am not a good son. She borrows from everyone and holds up my sisters and brothers, too, and refuses to account for any of the money we give her. The problem is becoming a terrific strain, draining my savings to the dregs. What shall I do?

WORRIED SON.

Answer—I think you are foolish to yet yourself be impoverished by a spendthrift mother. If you don't stop her demands upon you, you will ruin your entire life and be nothing but a slave who toils to supply the insatiable demands of a wasteful woman.

Stiffen up your backbone and have a showdown with her. Tell her that if she is in real need you will pay her board in some comfortable hotel or boarding house, and that you will give her a definite amount of spending money, but that you will not lend her another cent, nor will you pay any bills that she may contract. That will save you and be best for her because she is really getting no good out of the money she throws away.

It is a son's duty to see that his mother does not want, but it is not his duty to ruin himself for a mother who is a gold-digger and who loves him so little that she is merciless in her demands upon him.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl engaged to be married to a very fine young man who loves me dearly. I believe myself to be in love with him. The only thing that makes me doubt it is that ever so often I become foolishly infatuated with someone else. I always get over it and go back to my fiancé. Am I just kidding myself when I say I am in love with him, or are these affairs just temporary madness?

ALICE.

Answer—You are certainly not in love with the young man to whom you are engaged if you cannot be true to him even before marriage. My diagnosis of your symptoms is that you are a born philanderer and that no one man will ever satisfy you. You will always be the victim of affairs with other men.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CANDY STICKS

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily, on his way to have Dr. Possum cure his sore throat, looked at the circus giraffe and singing in the woods. I told you about them last night.

"I don't see how you can be so happy and gay when you have a sore throat," said Mr. Longears. "You with so much more neck than I have, must have a lot more sore throat."

"I have," said the giraffe. "Ten times as much. But what's the use of worrying? It can't last forever."

"Are you on your way to see Dr. Possum as I am?" asked Mr. Longears. "I can show you where he lives."

"Thank you, no," answered the giraffe in a rather husky voice. "I just came out here in the woods, while they are putting up the circus tent, to be by myself. I didn't want any of the other animals to catch my sore throat. And I've heard that pine is very good for coughs. There are pine trees here in the woods. I'm going to try to cure my own sore throat."

"That's a good idea," said Uncle Wiggily. "My goodness! I'm ashamed of myself! Here am I being cross with Nurse Jane and making a big fuss over my little sore throat and here you are not minding a big one!"

Uncle Wiggily told how he had been cross to his minkrat lady housekeeper and how he had made her stop dusting the chairs in the room where he sat reading the paper before he started for Dr. Possum's.

"Now I'll tell you what to do," said the giraffe.

"Please do," said Uncle Wiggily, and the giraffe said:

"You go get some medicine from Dr. Possum to cure your sore throat. He never would have medicine enough for my lone neck. I'll try the pine treatment. After you take your medicine, come here in the woods and I'll tell you next what to do."

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily. He hopped to Dr. Possum's office and the giraffe began nibbling spicy green pine needles from the tops of tall trees to cure his lone sore throat. Dr. Possum gave Uncle Wiggily some medicine which made the rabbit gentleman feel better and then Mr. Longears hopped back to meet Mr. Longears, which was the giraffe's name.

NURSE BE KIND

"Hurry to meet me, don't be late," Mr. Longears said Mr. Longears. "You were late in the morning, and you must be on time to meet me up for it."

MAN LURED FROM SUICIDE EFFORT

Seattle, July 14.—Hanging by his hands from an Aurora bridge girder 170 feet above Lake Union here, Howard Vardon, forty, a World War veteran, was persuaded by two patrolmen to climb back on the span today.

The officers, Patrolman L. W. Achenbach and C. E. Coleman, said their "lure" was for him to have "one last drink of whiskey."

They quoted him as saying he wanted to commit suicide because he was discouraged by the way he had "wasted" his bonus money. Later he was held without charge.

Hundreds of motorists completely blocked the bridge, watching the "rescue."

The gemsbok, a large South African antelope, never drinks water. Its moisture is obtained from the succulent, bulbous plants on which it feeds.
